

2 Brothers Held As Suspects in Holdup of Bank

Accused of Participating in Robbery at Richfield

GIRL ALSO NABBED
She Involved Pair in Eldorado Bank Hold-up in March

Fond du Lac —(P)—Two brothers who live on a Ford du Lac farm, Joe Utendorfer, 25, and Louis, 22, were held here today while police sought to perfect a chain of evidence which would connect them with the robbery of the Richfield State bank last Monday.

A girl with whom they were about to flee into Canada told police they were involved in the robbery at Richfield, and in the holdup of the Bank of Eldorado, Fond du Lac, last March.

The Utendorfer brothers refused to talk.

Fred Henning, assistant cashier of the Eldorado bank, identified Joe as one of the robbers who took $4,000 from the institution. He identified a picture of a third brother, Alex, as that of another of the Eldorado robbers.

Alex, police believe, is hiding in Milwaukee.

This afternoon, Joe and Louis were to be taken to Richfield and shown to many witnesses of the robbery there. They will be confronted by Richard Hackbart, cashier of the Richfield bank who was shot and seriously injured by one of the robbers.

Probe Other Crimes
Investigation of many other crimes has been re-opened as a result of the apprehension of the farm youths. Inquiry was under way to determine whether they had anything to do with the slaying of a filling station attendant in Milwaukee recently.

Automobile license plates first incriminated the Utendorfer brothers. But when they were arrested at 1 a. m., today, police were looking for a reckless driver. At the police station they were identified as men sought for the Richfield robbery.

Officers surrounded a small car back of the Treleven apartment building just as the brothers were getting out of the machine. In the building was a young woman, gathering up her clothes and preparing, she said later, to go to Canada.

The brothers came to the apartment structure, just a few yards from the police station, to get her baggage.

The girl talked to officers readily, and from her they learned that the third Utendorfer brother is in Milwaukee.

In Joe's pockets officers found $248. Louis carried only $10. In the automobile, on which they were Wisconsin license plates, was a set of Minnesota plates.

A set of plates, officers said, first led the way to the Fond du Lac farm. No one in Richfield caught the number, but the car, after the robbery, was ditched near Vernon, Waukesha-co, and a motorist who saw the accident took the number.

It was traced to the Utendorfer brothers by Elmo, Minn. Authorities learned they had gone to Minneapolis, then to Hudson, Wis., and finally to Fond du Lac.

Since the first of the year, officers said, the brothers bought five automobiles, all paid for in cash.

Phone Investigation
To be Resumed Aug. 1

Madison —(P)—The statewide investigation of the Wisconsin Telephone company will be resumed by the Public Service commission Aug. 1, it was announced today.

What course the hearing will take has not been determined but it is expected that the telephone company will continue cross-examination of the commission's accountants.

It was on the basis of the accounting and engineering data compiled by the commission staff that the regulatory body several weeks ago ordered a 12 per cent cut in the company's local telephone rates.

This reduction, subject to modification at any time, was made temporary pending completion of the investigations.

Coney Island Fire Loss Set At 3 Million

3 Blocks of Resort Center Burned — Many Persons are Homeless

200 REPORTED HURT
5,000 Bathers Lose Clothing and Their Personal Possessions

New York —(P)—The heart of Coney Island is a three million dollar ash pile today, but the bands play on.

Fire that started in rubbish under the board walk—Coney Island's polyglot promenade—swept three square blocks of the resort late yesterday.

While a carousel sent its monotonous music piping down through rolling waves of smoke, the fire, belloyed by a fresh breeze off the ocean, destroyed:

Fifty bungalows and houses; 6 bath houses and bathing pavilions; 200 parked automobiles; the pergola, the "Streets of Baghdad" (an amusement place); a small apartment building; five blocks of the board walk and most of the buildings fronting on it.

This was the principal destruction. Two score houses and several business places were damaged by fire.

At St. Joseph orphan home on the board walk 300 children were lined up in fire drill as the flames licked out in its direction. Firemen brought the blaze under control before it could reach the orphanage.

Many thousands were made homeless. At least 5,000 bathers among the 25,000 in the surf at the time, lost their clothes and personal possessions as the fire destroyed bath houses in which their clothes were locked.

$200 Persons Injured
Two hundred persons were injured seriously enough to need first aid attention. Only two, however, were reported seriously hurt. Both were firemen.

Every piece of fire apparatus in Brooklyn was called out. Darkness was falling before the fire was under control. It was still smoldering today.

It was the biggest fire Coney Island ever had, and it was a great free show for the 150,000 men, women and children who watched it. Even Dreamland fire of 1911 when property damage in the millions resulted, could not compare with this.

Expect Veto for Farm Relief Bill

Democratic Leaders Unofficially Informed of Hoover Opposition

Washington —(P)—While the house rules committee withheld action on the Norbeck farm relief bill passed yesterday by the senate, Democratic leaders in the house said today they had been unofficially informed that if it were sent to the White House it would be vetoed.

It is up to the rules committee to decide whether the bill should be given priority in the house for a vote before the imminent adjournment.

It was understood in house quarters that a number of senators who voted for the measure now were looking at it with a certain amount of doubt as to its constitutionality.

The measure provides a tax and a tariff, some Republican and Democratic house members claim. Under the legislation all tax and revenue measures must originate in the house.

There was no official word as to President Hoover's position, but it was clear on Capitol Hill that he was believed strongly opposed to the legislation.

Roosevelt Changes His Program During Cruise

New Bedford, Mass. —(P)—Abandoning his plans to visit Woods Hole, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his party aboard the yawl Myth, unexpectedly put in here today for supplies. The New York governor indicated he would proceed to Wings Neck, the anchorage at the entrance to the Cape Cod canal, where vessels wait their turn to pass through that waterway.

There was more heat in the offing, Meteorologist Frank H. Coleman warns. The weather maps indicate it is to the west and north-west, and that it is moving down on Wisconsin. It will arrive tomorrow, Coleman predicted. Here and there it will be accompanied by thunder-showers.

The mercury went up to 95 in several places in southern Wisconsin. It stood at 94 in Milwaukee. Superior and Green Bay each reported maximums of 86, while at Wausau the high reading was 82.

MORE HEAT FOR STATE
Milwaukee —(P)—Wisconsin and northern Michigan today enjoyed respite from the sizzling heat which established a season's high record yesterday and caused one death in Wisconsin.

Glowing Tributes to Post-Crescent
On Completion of New Building

Dorens of letters and telegrams have been received by the Appleton Post-Crescent from all over the middle west, congratulating it on completion of its new home and wishing it continued success in the newspaper field. The letters and telegrams are from other newspaper publishers, from civic organizations, and from business firms. Almost without exception, the writers express delight with the beauty of the new structure and most of them comment on the efficiency of plant layout.

Many of the letters also commented on the enterprise displayed by the Post-Crescent in building at this time. This sentiment was forcibly expressed by D. W. Grandon, editor of the Sterling Daily Gazette at Sterling, Ill.

"Please accept my most sincere congratulations on your enterprise and far-sightedness in erecting a new home for the Appleton Post-Crescent during this period when conditions are not generally considered favorable to much new development," Mr. Grandon wrote.

The people of Appleton have evidently recognized the excellence of your product, and your company in turn, in adding such a magnificent building to the assets of the community, is showing appreciation by adding another great asset to the community."

Noteworthy among the visitors at the new plant and who later wrote to express their delight with the building was Mrs. Ogden Reid of New York, the former Helen Rogers of Appleton. Mrs. Reid, who is vice-president of the New York Herald-Tribune and consequently familiar with newspaper plants all over the country, declared that "it was a great pleasure to see your fine new building" and expressed a hope to visit it again.

"An Excellent Paper"
Mrs. Reid also expressed considerable interest in the change in typography recently made by the Post-Crescent and indicated that her company is studying the new type face recently adopted by this paper.

"We have studied the Excelsior type for some time in our office," Mrs. Reid wrote, "and I was therefore particularly interested in finding that you have adopted it together with the upper and lower case of the headlines similar to those in use in the Herald-Tribune. Our experiments with eye tests in connection with the latter type showed they resulted in less eye strain and quicker reading. It seems to me you are making an excellent paper for Appleton and I want to congratulate you on what you are doing."

A particular pleasing compliment came to the Post-Crescent from the Herald-Tribune and consequently familiar with newspaper plants all over the country, declared that "it was a great pleasure to see your fine new building" and expressed a hope to visit it again.

Lausanne Treaty Not Ratified Pending Debts Issue AWAITS U. S. STAND

Britain Differs Sharply
With Statement by Herriot

(By the Associated Press)
The government's agreement arrived at yesterday toward the end of the Lausanne reparations conference, has been published in full, presumably at the request of the British government which was criticized in parliament for having participated in it.

The text revealed that the signatories agreed not to ratify the reparations treaty written in Lausanne until they had made a satisfactory settlement of their own debts.

In the words of the agreement, if this satisfactory settlement is not reached "the legal position of all the interested governments would become what it was before the Hoover moratorium," and "in this case the settlement in question cannot be obtained, the accord with Germany will not be ratified."

In that case the agreement provides that if Germany's creditors cannot obtain a settlement of their own debts, most of them to the United States, "a new situation will be created and the interested governments will have to agree on what they should do." It is at another conference, but at any rate "the Lausanne agreement will not definitely go into force" until after it is ratified by the creditor governments.

Complicating the situation even further is the new "accord of confidence" which France and Great Britain have reached and which they have invited the other European governments to join.

Different Interpretation
What makes it complicated is that the two signatories appeared to interpret it differently. Great Britain insists that it has nothing to do with the debts to America. The French premier said yesterday the first concrete result will be that in the near future Great Britain cannot make any new arrangements to pay her debts to the United States without first consulting France.

That statement disturbed officials in London, but it was said the British position was unchanged and that perhaps there might be an additional statement making it even stronger.

Throughout all this controversy the United States has remained in its role of interested observer.

When the Lausanne treaty was first discussed in the British parliament the character of exchequer was regarded into saying the negotiators had had an opportunity to consult representatives of the United States.

Secretary of State Stimson, taking this to mean what it seemed to mean, quickly denied any authorized American representative had participated in the Lausanne treaty.

Subsequently it was explained only that the British delegates to Lausanne had discussed the impending treaty only in private conversations with American delegates to the disarmament conference who happened to be in Lausanne at the time.

Other responsible American political leaders declined to discuss the situation in much detail before receiving more complete information.

TEXT OF AGREEMENT
Paris —(P)—The text of the much discussed "Lausanne agreement" entered into at Lausanne by European nations was published today. The agreement provides that the Lausanne agreement shall not be ratified until each of the countries has obtained a satisfactory settlement between it and its creditors.

The agreement was initiated by France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium. It also provides that the Lausanne agreement shall not be ratified until each of the countries has obtained a satisfactory settlement between it and its creditors.

Head of U. S. Chemical
Service in War is Dead

New York —(P)—Van H. Manning, Sr., who developed the American chemical warfare service during the World War, is dead. He succumbed yesterday at his home in Queens at the age of 70.

Manning more recently a consulting engineer, was a founder of the bureau of mines during the war. He was one of the credit for the development of the gas mask.

His son, who is a member of the same name, was a congressman. Surviving are the widow, who was Emily S. Stevens of Washington, and two sons.

Ex-Gov. Groesbeck Not Seeking Former Office

Detroit, Mich. —(P)—Former Gov. Alex. J. Groesbeck announced today that he will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan.

Groesbeck said he was not running for office at a time when political parties make proclamation the outstanding issue.

"While I have decided views in regard to the eighteenth amendment," such as those expressed by former President Taft, "I do not think it is the best issue," Groesbeck said.

The real issue is good sound economic and efficient government along accepted American lines. Entertaining these views, I cannot consistently comply with the request of many voters that I become a candidate."

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE

British Press In Attack Upon French Accord

Speculates About Results Of New Understanding With France

London.—(P)—British opinion, as represented by some London newspapers today, showed a disposition to wonder, or to oppose, the new Franco-British accord announced yesterday in the house of commons by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary.

The discussions of the pact generally omitted the question of the apparent difference of interpretation of the new agreement in France and Great Britain in regard to its application to the question of war debt arrangements with the United States.

Premier Herriot was quoted as saying in Paris that, as a first consequence of the agreement, Great Britain could not make new arrangements for debt payments to the United States without consulting France, while Sir John Simon told the house of commons it had no connection with Franco-American and Anglo-American relations.

The Daily Express, launching an attack on the accord in an editorial, regarded it chiefly as prejudicing the work of the imperial conference about to begin at Ottawa, Canada.

The Express asked whether it was a coincidence or an intention "that this momentous announcement" was made on the day the ship sailed for Canada with the British delegation to the conference.

"Were the dominions consulted?" the paper asked. "Have we entered, or are we in process of entering, into obligations, understandings, arrangements, pacts and agreements with a foreign nation without knowledge or sanction of our self-governing dominions?"

"It is bad enough for this country to get mixed up still further with European affairs, but it is monstrous if in that process we make decisions that may not only separate us from the dominions in the economic sphere, but may result eventually in a separation in case of war."

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, said Sir John Simon's announcement "will require a great deal of elucidation before it meets with the approval of progressive opinion in this country."

"It leaves so much unsaid," the paper complained.

It quoted Premier Herriot of France as halting the announcement of the accord as a resurrection of the old entente cordiale, the Franco-British agreement of 1904 by which France and Great Britain settled their positions in northern Africa, Great Britain assuming dominance over Egypt and France over Morocco.

"To return to the old system of sectional alliances," the Herald said, "such as those which produced the French war, would be a retrograde step of the worst kind."

Some other papers, however, hailed the new accord as the beginning of a new spirit in Europe.

The Telegraph welcomed it as likely to strengthen the spirit of cooperation arising from the Lausanne agreement. The News-Chronicle said it considered the foreign secretary's statement extremely important and that it showed France was ready to cooperate practically with Great Britain to a degree not apparent for a long time.

It is "excellent," the News-Chronicle said, "without any qualification if it is further implied—in fact it is—that other countries may join this new cooperation; and not only may, but are eagerly invited to do so."

More Persons Live to be 65 During Last Decade

Madison.—(P)—During the past decade the number of Wisconsin residents who have lived to the age of 65 years or longer has been increased by 5,164 individuals, the state board of health announced today in a survey of causes of death in the state.

In 1920, there were 192,046 residents in Wisconsin 65 years of age or older, the board said. The increase is attributed to "increased intelligence in personal habits and a winning fight against a number of communicable diseases."

During 1931, a total of 6,473 persons between the ages of 70 and 79 years died in the state. This is an increase of 184 over 1920, the board said.

Heart disease caused 30 per cent of these deaths or 1,935, other causes of fatalities in the age group and the toll exacted followed: Cancer, 949 deaths; cerebral hemorrhage, 914; pneumonia, 651; pneumonia, 326; accidents, 313; diabetes, 210; diseases of the arteries, 185; influenza, 100 and diseases of the prostate, 68.

Camp Staff Discusses Plans for Encampment

Members of the 1932 camp staff of the valley council of boy scouts met in the scout offices Wednesday evening to discuss the program for the encampment at Onaway Island, Chautauque, Waukegan, Aug. 7 to 27. The staff is composed of M. G. Clark, director; Arthur P. Jensen, former physical director of the Y. M. C. A. director of water front activities; Charles Wickham, Charles Wilkner, Robert Williams, Leo Gardner, Ralph Watta, Arthur Kronschnabel, Joseph Kische and Ira Clough.

CAR IS STOLEN

Police here have been asked to look for a Dodge sedan, 1931 model, which was reported stolen at Green Bay last night. The car was maroon in color and was equipped with a trunk. It had the motor number, 55144, and the serial number, 100000.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPER RETURNS

SOME SENATORS SPEAK THEIR MINDS

To read what the Senators have been saying about the war debts is to realize that the loudest talkers have never taken the trouble to examine the facts. Let us begin with Senator Watson, the Republican floor leader, and Senator Couzens, both of whom say that the war debt "represents money loaned Europe for reconstruction purposes."

This statement is not true. If we call all money advanced after the armistice money lent "for reconstruction purposes," an assumption which gives Senators Watson and Couzens the benefit of ever possible doubt—what do we find? We find that Great Britain borrowed 3,696 million dollars before the armistice, and 561 millions after the armistice, that France borrowed 1,970 millions before the armistice and 1,434 millions after (if we include 407 millions lent in France by the American Army), that Italy borrowed 1,031 millions before and 617 millions after the armistice. This means that if Britain is paying only her post-armistice debt, her total debt has been reduced 86 per cent, that France's has been reduced 60 per cent and Italy's 63 per cent. I should like to see Senator Watson and Senator Couzens prove that the British debt has been reduced 86 per cent.

Co-Ops Lauded by Kohler in Speech

Former Governor Points to Benefits in Sheboygan Address

Sheboygan.—(P)—Vast possibilities of good are held by cooperative organization, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler declared today in a speech at the annual picnic of the Sheboygan Dairyfarmers cooperative association of which he is a member.

"From a production standpoint, small agricultural units have in general proved efficient," Mr. Kohler said. "As a manufacturer, the farmer in general has done a good job. The difficulty existed even in more prosperous days than we are now experiencing.

"Agriculture finds it much harder today to solve the marketing problems.

"The economic conditions of the last three years have aggravated the farmer's plight, which was serious enough before. We are getting one-third the price for milk that we got in 1927 and 20 per cent less than we got even last year. Eggs sell for half what they brought in 1930.

"Lately there have been some indications of improvement, particularly noticeable in the price paid for hogs. We all hope this presages a further increase in agricultural prices. The farmer, however, will continue to have a marketing problem and he can profit by the help of cooperative organizations such as this."

Tent to House Chapple During His Campaign

Ashland.—(P)—John B. Chapple's campaign for election as United States senator will be an effort to step from a tent to the capitol. He announced today that he will travel up and down Wisconsin with a tent and sleep in tourists' camps by the way.

There are two reasons for the unique campaign method, Chapple said. He must economize because he has expended his meagre personal means already, and the corrupt practices act limits the sum he may spend to $5,000. Chapple proposes to stretch that $5,000 as far as possible, and stopping at tourists' camps will enable him to visit hundreds of communities.

Two automobiles will constitute the Chapple party when he starts his swing about the state tomorrow. Robert Keedra, Ashland high school graduate last year, and Leslie Koons will drive ahead, pick out likely street corners for addresses, post signs and proceed to the next stop.

Fail to Agree on Method to Better Fluid Milk Price

Council of Agriculture Meets With Little Success In Reconciliation Effort

An attempt by the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture to reconcile three distinctly different opinions on the cooperative method of improving the price of fluid milk in the state met with but little success at the state capital Tuesday.

The different opinions were presented by Fred Bergelin, Denmark, representing the new state milk pool; Anton Loehr, St. John, Calumet-co, representing the Wisconsin Dairy union, a strong organization in Sheboyga; and Calumet-co; and Thomas O'Connor of the Pure Milk Products cooperative.

Gehrman Presides

The meeting was presided over by B. J. Gehrman, Mellen, president of the council. Herman Hde, Neenah, state master of the Grange and a member of the council, acted as secretary.

Following the open discussion the council went into executive session and decided to meet here July 28 when they hope to have a definite contract upon which to work and from which they hope to obtain a uniform marketing agreement. This contract will probably come from the new state milk pool, which will meet here the day previous, July 27. The pool has submitted a contract to its various county units and expects to have one ready for adoption by that time. It will then be submitted to the council of agriculture in the hope that other cooperatives will join its use and a state uniformity result.

The Dairy Union, through its spokesman, Anton Loehr, favored withholding the milk from the market to force the price upward, but objectors pointed out that where it might be possible with grain and certain fruits, it would involve an immediate and heavy waste with dairy products. Bergelin of the state milk pool stated that his organization was willing to cooperate in some uniform method with the other organizations.

Need Mart Facilities

Most of those present at that production control was not sufficient and that it would fail without marketing facilities. This opinion was substantiated by A. H. Lauterbach, manager of the Cheese Producers Federation, who was called into the meeting. Others who presented opinions were Charles Dineen, a member of the council representing the Milwaukee Cooperative Milk Producers; Charles Beebe, Blue River, director of the Farmer's Union, and J. D. Beck, commissioner of agriculture, who proposed a long time plan similar to the fruit cooperative in California.

The successful work and financing of the Dairyman's League in New York was explained by Thomas Sutz of the federal farm board, who was on his way back to Washington, D. C., after a trip through the middle west. He explained that the league was a pool organization, and paid pool prices, and that the May price for 35 milk within a radius of 200 miles of the state, was $1.05.

8,883 Students Trained By Extension Division

Madison.—(P)—A total of 8,883 students in 48 Wisconsin counties received training during the year ending in June from the University of Wisconsin extension division, Chester Allen, school director, announced today.

Courses offered the students meeting in 200 different groups, included courses in investment, economics, sociology, home decoration, landscape gardening, postgraduate medical and dental work, police work and fire fighting.

The following cities were centers for classes and short courses: Antigo, Appleton, Baraboo, Beaver Dam, Beloit, Berlin, Cudahy, De Pere, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Fort Atkinson, Green Bay, Hales Corners, Janesville, Kaukauna, Kenosha, Ladysburg, Madison, Manitowish, Marinette, Marshfield, Menasha, Milwaukee, Monroe, Neenah, Oshkosh, Platteville, Plymouth, Port Washington, Racine, Reedsburg, Rameau, Richland Center, Sheboygan, Shorewood, Stevens Point, Stoughton, Superior, Tomah, Two Rivers, Union Grove, Viroqua, Watertown, Wausau, Waupun, Waubesa, Waubesa and Wisconsin Rapids.

Memorial Hospital May Be Leased, Ruling Holds

Madison.—(P)—Langlade County Memorial hospital may be leased to a private religious society to be operated as a "sanatorium" for the soldier and sailors, or title to the hospital may be deeded for that purpose, Attorney General John J. Reynolds ruled today. The opinion was given to District Attorney James R. Durfee, Antigo.

If the title is transferred by deed it must be done on a condition restricting the use of the property as a memorial hospital only, the attorney general said.

Money Used in Attempted Bribery Isn't Forfeited

Madison.—(P)—Money used in an attempted bribery is not forfeited to the state, Oliver L. O'Boyle corporation counsel at Milwaukee, was advised today in an opinion by Attorney General John J. Reynolds.

In a ruling to B. A. Kieffer of Milwaukee, president of the State Board of Accountancy, the attorney general held that revocation proceedings are necessary to cancel a certificate which the board learns was issued erroneously.

It was announced this morning he will speak on Relief Work. Special efforts are being expended by council officials for a big attendance.

Nab Desperadoes

A two-year search for two desperadoes, Francis L. Keating (top photo) and Thomas Holden (below), ended on the 18th green of a Kansas City golf course when federal agents found them with putters in their hands instead of six-shooters. The two were serving 25-year terms for a mail train holdup when they walked out of Leavenworth penitentiary in 1930 on a conditional release pass. Authorities said the pair plotted the Leavenworth prison break last December. They are to be questioned, too, in the Lindbergh kidnap case.

Abandon Battle Against Advance Of Borer in U. S.

Quarantine Must be Lifted Because of Fund Shortage, Hyde Says

Washington.—(P)—The corn borer can just bide ahead, unmolested this year by federal quarantine regulations.

Secretary Hyde announced late yesterday that since the congress had cut his agriculture department appropriation to fight the bug from $795,000 to $285,000 the quarantine would have to be lifted tomorrow.

The insect already has cost the federal government around $200,000. This year the house appropriations committee decided that in the general economy drive the allowance could be reduced since Nils A. Olsen, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, testified:

"The corn borer has gotten away from us. We evidently can not stamp it out. The present opinion of entomologists is that it is impossible to exterminate the pest and that it is likely to spread over the entire corn belt."

The committee concluded that if the borer was going to spread 20 miles a year anyway, why spend such large sums of money. An effort was made on the house floor to increase the appropriation, but it failed.

First Noticed in 1918

Back in 1918 the bug was brought into Massachusetts from abroad. Quarantine regulations were slapped on, but by 1921 it had gotten into the middle west, boring its way through cornstalks and weakening them so the slightest wind blew them over.

In 1927 President Coolidge asked, and got, a $10,000,000 appropriation to fight the borer. In 1928 he signed a bill for another $7,000,000. Since then, annual appropriations in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 had been made.

But the corn borer spread just the same. Only last year, Olsen told the house committee, the bug had extended to north-eastern Indiana and a substantial part of Michigan. Its progress was slowed somewhat by the drought.

The house appropriations committee had expected the reduction of $500,000 this year could be met by elimination of road patrol work. Secretary Hyde said, though, that the remaining $285,000 "is entirely inadequate to prevent the shipment or trucking of corn from the infested areas and to carry out the other measures essential for the protection of uninfested districts and the department therefore has no choice but to cancel the regulations."

Storey Betrayed to Police by His Bride, His Brother Claims

Bowling Green, Ohio.—(P)—James Storey, 22-year-old St. Paul desperado who was shot to death in South Bend, Ind., after a wild series of crimes in Ohio, was betrayed to police by his bride, Manley Storey, 17, said today.

Manley, the youngest of three Storey brothers, who launched a career of crime, said James' bride sat in a car while they robbed three filling stations between St. Louis and South Bend shortly after their marriage. The girl, Margaret Hardin, had become suspicious because her husband spent money lavishly without a job, according to Manley.

She gave South Bend police the "tip-off" when James, fleeing from a string of kidnappings and one murder in Ohio, was captured there. Manley continued. James was shot to death trying to escape police.

Manley was arraigned on robbery charges yesterday and held in the county jail in default of $15,000 bond.

The third brother, Bert, 19, was reported recovering in a hospital here from bullet wounds inflicted by Marshal John N. Davis of North Baltimore, before the officer was slain by James Storey in a gun fight. Police said two of the bullets that struck the marshal were fired by Bert and that he may be charged with first degree murder.

Deny Application to Run Motor Truck Line

Madison.—(P)—On the ground that the territory between Chilton and Milwaukee over highways 57 and 141 is now adequately served with transportation facilities, the public service commission today denied the application of Robert Onilnig of Chilton to operate a motor truck line between those points. His application was opposed by railroad truck lines, bus lines, railroad brotherhoods and the officials of two villages, the commission said.

Government Cost Higher in 1931; Receipts Also Up

Per Capita Increase Was 9 Cents, but State Still Reduced Debt

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington.—Although the cost of running Wisconsin's state government increased 9 cents per capita in 1931, governmental receipts so far exceeded governmental expenses that the state was able to reduce its debt and make investments.

The payments for operation and maintenance of the state government equaled $57,721,844 during the fiscal year 1931, which ended June 30, 1931, the Census Bureau announced today (Thursday).

However, the total revenue receipts during the same period amounting to $63,019,743, exceeded these expenses by $5,297,899. This excess of revenue is reflected in the reduction of net per capita indebtedness from 47 cents in 1930 to 43 cents per capita in 1931, making the total net indebtedness for 1931 amount to $1,263,700.

Of the state expenses, $36,216,333 or $12.26 per capita went for operation and maintenance of general departments of the state government; $85,459 were spent for interest on the debt, and $21,409,852 were for permanent improvements. Of these governmental costs, $23,333,345 went for highway construction and maintenance. The per capita cost of operation and maintenance of general departments was $12.17 in 1930.

Revenue Sources

The revenue receipts owed 39 per cent of their total in 1931 to property and special taxes as against 40.5 per cent in 1930.

Another 39 per cent of the total is owed to business and non-business licenses, such as insurance and corporation licenses and automobile and hunting and fishing privileges, as against 38.7 per cent in 1930; and 9.7 per cent of the total to earnings of general departments or compensation for services rendered by State officials, as against 9.8 per cent in 1930.

The assessed valuation of property in Wisconsin subject to ad valorem taxation was $6,606,248,678 in 1931, the Bureau announced. The amount of state taxes levied equaled $12,317,925 and the per capita levied, $4.17, as against $4.32 in 1930.

Comparative figures of Minnesota and Illinois' finances during the same period reveal that, as in Wisconsin, cost of government increased in 1931 but receipts exceeded payments. Illinois was thus able to reduce its debt, from $26.54 to $25.43 per capita, remaining, however, greatly in excess of Wisconsin's 43 cents. Minnesota embarked on a highway program and the issuance of bonds to cover this work increased that state's indebtedness from $1.57 in 1930 to $3.53 per capita in 1931.

It cost more per capita to run Minnesota's government in 1931 than to run Wisconsin's, $25.52 to $12.26, but it cost less for Illinois, $7.53 per capita.

Business and non-business licenses were the big revenue getter for Minnesota, providing 49.7 per cent of its total revenue, with property and special taxes contributing only 19.2 per cent. In Illinois, property and special taxes represented 43.7 per cent and business and non-business licenses, 49.5 of the total.

Revenue from sales tax on gasoline increased all three states, by 24.2 per cent to $9,912,603 in Wisconsin; by 49.5 per cent to $23,846,193 in Illinois; and by 8.6 per cent to $7,328,437 in Minnesota.

Chief Warns Against Bicycling on Sidewalk

Police Chief George T. Prim today issued a warning to Appleton boys and girls, calling their attention to the statute prohibiting the riding of bicycles on sidewalks. The chief said many complaints have been received the past week from citizens objecting to this practice and he said officers will be instructed to arrest all violators. The chief also pointed to the danger of accidents resulting from this practice.

Veterans Stick To Posts Before Federal Capitol

Still Hoping to Convince Congress of Immediate Need for Cash

Washington.—(P)—A weaving column of footsore war veterans stuck to their guard post in front of the capitol today, hoping their all-night march would convince congress they really want the bonus.

The darkness gave way to the first signs of dawn, a couple of hundred of them plodded back and forth past the house and senate wings of the building. Some marched but most had slipped into a slow shuffle, singing doggedly to the strains of a lone harmonica.

Along about 2 o'clock in the morning, Washington's police chief, Pelham D. Glassford, treated them to coffee and sinks. He suggested a vacant lot in back of the house officers building would be a nice place to rest, but repeated his orders against sleeping on the capitol grounds.

Some veterans took the hint. In relays they slept in the vacant lot and marched. Others rested on the steps of the Congressional library. A few, overcome by exhaustion, were taken to hospitals for the rest of the night.

Most were orderly, although one Roscoe Pagnola of West New Jersey, complained he "didn't like the way the police ordered me off the grass. He spent what was left of the night in a place where there was no grass—the first precinct police station."

In the lead of the parade was Urban Ledoux, better known to the down-and-outers he has befriended as "Mr. Zero." He and the harmonica player swapped the job of guiding the unsteady line across the capitol pavement.

Just behind them was a woman, wife of a marcher who had to drop out. Neither she nor the big yellow cat on her shoulder showed signs of fatigue as the east began to lighten. She had marched while she joined the others in singing—not quite so lustily as in "17 and 18—There's a Long, Long Trail," "Over There," and "Pack up Your Troubles" and some more old favorites.

When breakfast time came, they had 1,000 sandwiches to eat, sent to them by Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, who drove by and watched the march for a time.

Public Works Board Opens Bids on Sewers

The board of public works opened bids Wednesday afternoon at city hall for sewer construction on N. Morrison-st. between E. Pacific and E. Atlantic-sts. The low bid was submitted by Fred Holtz for $667.25. The bid will be referred to the common council at its next meeting. Other bidders were R. J. Wilson and Frank Bartak.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, minerals, or laxatives, candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more moment doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Her bowels are constipated. It has a sour, chock, bad taste and your breath is foul, and often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pints of bile flowing freely. They are small, feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when you consider making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for Liver Pills. Ask for CARTER'S Little Liver Pills. Look for the name CARTER'S on the wrapper. Buy at all drug stores. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Mysterious "Depression Flowers"

You Can Grow Them at Home . . . Try It

RECIPE for growing "Depression Flowers"—Take four lumps of soft coal, coke or cinders and put them in a glass bowl. Over these pour TWO tablespoons of water. TWO of salt and TWO of bluing in rotation mentioned. The next morning sprinkle on TWO more tablespoons of salt. On the third morning add TWO more tablespoons of salt and TWO of water, before finally adding TWO drops of mercurochrome or any other red coloring to EACH LUMP. Within a short time a beautiful flower-like growth will come out on the coal. Conclusion of an growth for the growth of your flower. If you want to keep it growing or want a larger floral growth just add more bluing salt and water from time to time. It will bloom indefinitely into rose-buds, coral formations and crystals, and all over the sides of the bowl if you keep adding the ingredients.

Aimee Critically Ill, Lapses Into Coma, Doctor Says

"Condition Precarious— She's Awfully Sick Wo- man," Physician States

Los Angeles.—(P)—Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton was reported by her physician, Dr. Edward H. Williams, as being in a "precarious" condition today.

Her removal from a Lake Elsinore resort to a Los Angeles hospital in an ambulance was ordered. She was reported to have lapsed into a coma last night.

"Mrs. Hutton's condition can not be regarded as precarious," said Dr. Williams. "She is an awfully sick woman."

"She must be removed to a hospital and kept there. There is a strong possibility that she may suffer a cerebral hemorrhage from the brain concussion."

Mrs. Hutton Has Been Ill Since Suffered a Nervous Breakdown More Than a Year Ago. Her condition was aggravated by a tropical climate contracted on a recent Central American tour. Last Saturday she suffered concussion of the brain when she fainted and fell, striking her head on the concrete floor on being informed that her husband, David Hutton, had been found guilty by a jury in a breach of promise suit brought by Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, pretty nurse.

Temple began to drift into uncon- sciousness. Dr. Williams said, while she was conferring with an attorney regarding a $20,000 damage suit filed by Roy Stewart, film di- rector, over a motion picture con- tract. Recently she lost a $10,000 suit to Harvey Gates, a scenarist.

Ousts 20 Employees

Apparently improved, she awoke Wednesday to direct the discharge of 20 employees of the temple commissary after which she dictated an appeal to the public for continued support of the welfare work, promising a further "house cleaning" and explaining that the alleged misuse of donated funds had occurred during her absence.

Then she summoned Attorney Paul Schenck, but he said he found it impossible to focus her mind on details of the Stewart suit.

"I was unable to elicit an intelligible word from her," he said. "She can not articulate and even failed to recognize me. She is in a comatose state."

Charges of "petty graft and charity racketeering" by the commissary racketeer, which were the subject of her hearing yesterday by the City Social Service commission, whose members said they were not investigating the temple itself, but only the distribution of food supplies gathered under city permit for charitable purposes.

Hutton, who has been elected chairman of the board of elders of the temple, was one of the witnesses. He said two or three employees had "betrayed" the temple.

Democrats to Work Hard for Local Offices

Plan Complete County Slate as They Endorse National Ticket

The national Democratic ticket and platform was endorsed and resolutions calling for a complete slate of candidates for county offices were adopted by more than 150 Outagamie-co Democrats at a mass meeting at the courthouse last night.

The crowd was one of the largest to attend a Democratic meeting in recent years and county leaders expressed confidence that Outagamie would be listed in the Democratic column at the elections next September and November. More than 30 women were included in the audience.

Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the committee, whose plans for the coming campaign had been in doubt due to the fact that he opposed the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt and supported Alfred E. Smith at the recent national convention, in a formal statement declared he would support the nominees and platform of the convention. His statement drew prolonged applause from the crowd. It was followed a short time later by unanimous adoption of a motion pledging the support of the county group to the national ticket.

Mr. Balliet's statement follows: "I am casting my vote at the Democratic national convention I deemed that I represented the will of the majority of the voters of this district, and this had been fully confirmed since my return."

Believes in Majority
"I believe in majority rule and being a good Democrat I will support the nominees and platform of the convention."

Lea F. Fox, Chilton, Democratic candidate for the nomination as governor, and James Hughes, De Pere, candidate for congress from the Eighth district, gave short talks. Recalling the fact that the country had to depend on able Democrats like Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland and Wilson to help them from the sloughs of depression in the past, Mr. Hughes said the country this year again will turn to a Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, to save the nation.

Pointing to President Hoover, "the great engineer," Mr. Hughes said he promised the voters prosperity, but gave them poverty instead. He declared the recent Republican convention was nothing more than an attempt to keep Hoover from being elected, at which time he was approved by a group of delegates consisting largely of postmasters whose jobs he controlled. He hit the G. O. P. prohibition plank as a "straddle" that pleased both Bishop Cannon and Al Capone.

Selection of a complete slate of candidates for every county and state office and organization of an active county committee was urged by Mr. Hughes, who pointed out that these efforts would insure Democratic success. He also asked the support of the group in his campaign for congress.

Asks Full Slate
"You can have a successful party unless you can get candidates to office and you can't get candidates unless you have them," declared Mr. Fox in urging the Outagamie-co group to put a full slate of candidates in the field. Mr. Fox attacked the Republican state administration and blamed the G. O. P. for the increase in state taxes from $37,000,000 in 1912 to $238,000,000 in 1929. He declared it is no wonder that laborers are losing their homes, farmers are losing their farms, and business is prostrated when the government takes more than 30 per cent of all income for taxes. He slept at expensive government hotels and the ever-increasing number of employees on the state payroll. He declared it was hard to defeat an administration that controlled 10,000 job holders who could be pressed into campaign activity.

"The voters have listened to the promises of the Republicans for too long a time," he said. "They have failed to fulfill their pledges and they should be turned from office. Taxes have reached a point where the voters of this state actually face confiscation of their property through taxation. The state now owns 19,000,000 acres or more than a third of all its land as a result of assuming title to property when the owners could pay the excessive taxes. A new regime of economic and Democratic government is needed."

Describe Convention
Mr. Balliet told of some of his experiences at the Democratic convention and explained that the reason he voted for Alfred E. Smith was that he felt his county was for him. He said he was elected as an independent delegate and as such he had the right to vote as he pleased.

Other speakers included John Bauman, who told of his experiences as a spectator at the Democratic convention; Gustave Keller, Sr., who urged the selection of a complete county ticket, support of a financial campaign, and activity in the county campaign; and T. H. Ryan, who also urged that the Democrats make an effort to elect candidates to every county office as well as to offices in the state and national governments.

A resolution calling for appointment of a committee to solicit candidates for county offices was adopted. This committee will be named later by Mr. Balliet.

Mulching Plants is Help During Year's Dry Spell

BY W. R. BEATTIE
Senior Horticulturist, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

Gardeners sometimes have great difficulty keeping their crops growing in midsummer on account of the way the surface soil dries out. Then the surface gets so hot that certain plants do not thrive. A mulch of straw or coarse manure will not only conserve the moisture supply, but will shade the soil and protect the roots of the plants from too high temperature. A heavy mulch will also keep down weeds and make cultivation practically unnecessary.

Farmers throughout the wheat belt, where straw is plentiful, often plant potatoes, covering the seed pieces only two or three inches deep, then as soon as the sprouts appear through they cover the whole patch with 10 or 12 inches of straw. When the straw settles to about four or five inches the potatoes grow up through it, and there they are with no weeds or cultivation to bother them until time to dig the potatoes.

Postoffice in New Home Next Sunday

Task of Moving from Old Building Starts Saturday Noon

building. It has been necessary for them to acquaint themselves with the layout in the new office, so there will be no interruptions in the movements of the mails.

Because of the tremendous number of requests received from stamp collectors and others who want the first piece of mail which goes through the cancelling machine in the new office, postal officials have decided to take all of the special mail and run it through the machine as "the first batch." They believe that such a scheme will avoid disappointments.

Broke Ground in '31
All mail received in the office before Sunday noon will be included in the "first batch," postal officials said. According to postal officials, members of stamp collectors organizations are preparing a special cachet for the event.

Ground for the new postoffice was broken in March, 1931. The structure was erected at a total cost of approximately $275,000, that amount including the purchase of the site and cost of equipment. The building was constructed by the Tappan Construction Co. of Minneapolis.

Construction work on the building which is to be vacated Sunday, was started in 1931, and on March 1, 1932, the postoffice was ready for occupancy. The old office was vacated at an approximate cost of $69,000.

That building became inadequate about 10 years ago. When parcel post service was inaugurated in 1913 the office was cramped and it was necessary to utilize every available corner in the structure.

A few years ago a fireman's floor was erected for mail carriers and their racks. During the past four years rural carriers have been obliged to store their mail in the old "wing room" in the basement.

The Appleton postoffice has been moved many times during the past 30 years. Before it moved into the building on N. Oneida street in 1912, it was located on S. Apple street in the building which until a short time ago was occupied by the Post Publishing Co. Prior to that time it occupied the old A. J. Smith building on N. Oneida street, near Midway.

In earlier years the office was moved almost every time a new postmaster took office.

Estimate Loss in Coney Island Fire At Three Million

Many Lose Clothes as Three Blocks in Heart Of Resort are Burned

yesterday's fire. The Dreamland fire destroyed an amusement place. Yesterday's fire destroyed homes, brought suffering to hundreds, inconvenience to thousands and damage to a wide area.

Twenty-five thousand persons in bathing suits stood along the beach to the edge of which the fire came, and watched. Where the flames roared hottest the bathers were forced back almost to the water's edge.

Many thousands, at the first sight of the fire, dashed for the bathing houses and succeeded in getting their clothes. About two thousand others, intent on watching the fire, forgot their clothing until the flames were crackling among the bath houses. Then it was too late.

No estimate of the personal losses suffered by bathers could be made. It ran unquestionably into the tens of thousands. Adding to their loss was their predicament of being many miles from home with only a bathing suit and no funds for transportation. Subway and street car companies solve this dilemma by providing free transportation home to those in bathing suits. Police also commandeered busses in the emergency.

In addition to the bath houses and private homes destroyed, the fire wiped out scores of small shops selling curios, antiques and souvenirs.

Their homes gone, thousands slept last night on the beach camped only by a sky which threatened intermittently to give them a wetting. Others of the homeless took advantage of offers of shelter in theatres and other public buildings. More than 500 persons lost their homes in the destruction of the one apartment building that was before the flames.

Police estimated the total number of homeless at 5,000. Policemen were on duty through the night arranging provisions for the hungry. During it all, with ambulances forcing their way with difficulty through packed streets, and with thousands of men and women running about in bewildered stampede before the roar of fire fighting companies, Coney Island went on with its play. Ferris wheels made their slow circles, roller-coasters streaked on with their cargoes of laughing youth, and throngs, laughing and excited, moved unconcernedly about the amusements.

Smoke Hangs Low
The wind which fanned the fire blew from the water, but the flames did not die. High, thick smoke hung in dense clouds, close to the ground.

The lowly nickel became the coin of the hour. The thousands who had lost their clothing and money crowded about the police station. Nearly all of them wanted a nickel; a nickel to telephone, a nickel to get home on. At first the police refused to give out nickels. As the need for nickels increased this means of meeting the demand became out of the question. It was then the police arranged for free transportation home for those without funds.

During the hours when the fire burned most fiercely hundreds of families became separated, and children were left alone. There was another problem dumped upon the shoulders already heavy with the responsibility of maintaining order, aiding the firemen, clearing the streets and ministering to those seeking aid.

Looters were quick to take advantage of the confusion. As men and women ran from bath houses and thousands of first-class clothes slipped in and out of the bath houses, ahead of the flames, looting was what they could.

Excitement was greatest in the bath houses where large numbers were preparing either to enter the surf or to dress. As the alarm rang, some ran out, some in bathing suits, some partly dressed, and a few wearing nothing at all.

At Silver's bath, one of the places as destroyed, several women were in the steam room. When they heard the cry of "fire" they did not stop to dress either because they could not immediately find their clothing or because they were fearful of delay. Most of them ran to the street with towels wrapped around them. Persons living nearby supplied them with clothing.

Three Charged With Parking Cars Too Long

Three more drivers were arrested yesterday by Officer Earl H. Berg on charges of parking their cars on College-ave and Appleton-st. longer than the law allows. The men were fined $1 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg when he pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning.

One car was tagged on College-ave, Roman Wenzel, 113 W. First-st., whose car also was tagged on College-ave, pleaded guilty in court this morning and paid $1 and costs. The third car was tagged on Appleton-st. and its owner, P. S. Swanson, 121 N. Appleton-st., was also charged with parking too long.

Fail to Agree on Relief Measure

Unexpected Difficulties Encountered by House and Senate Group

by Speaker Garner's deciding vote, for publicity on all loans made hereafter by the Reconstruction corporation, including advances to banks.

Washington—(P)— Congress worked hard today to send a lusty infant—the new $2,122,000,000 relief bill—to President Hoover, its godfather, and go home this week.

Only two days old, the measure, christened the "Hoover bill" by the Democrats, had both house and senate sanction. As is usual with infants, however, all its features had not taken final form and the moulting process was left to congressmen representing senate and house ideas. They hoped to get it into such shape that it would satisfy the president and not be sent back to the capitol with another vigorous veto note.

The house had voted 296 to 46 to let the youngster go to Mr. Hoover without carrying permission for federal reserve banks to discount notes of private individuals. Although some administration followers thought this would make it not so welcome to Congress, Secretary Mills and Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve board, did not oppose it.

Both house and senate had agreed to the idea of compelling the Reconstruction Finance corporation to publish lists of borrowers. Speaker Garner broke a 169-169 tie on this point.

The new measure would increase the capital of the corporation from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000. Of this $3,000,000,000 would be allocated to state relief loans, the balance to public or quasi-public works of self-liquidating nature—not to individuals, the provision that led to the veto of the first bill.

It also would let $222,000,000 be expended on public works, only when the secretary of the treasury thinks finances justify.

Another important bill, that to create a home loan bank system, also was in conference with final action hoped for soon. House leaders planned to take up shortly the emergency farm relief measure passed late yesterday by the senate under which farmers would receive 42 cents a bushel on wheat, 2 cents a pound on hogs and 5 cents a pound on short-staple cotton needed for domestic consumption.

All agreed that with these three things out of the way, adjournment this week would be easy.

Rain May Bring Relief From Heat

Mercury Rises to 85 Degrees Above as Torrid Blast Continues

Although the weatherman promised relief from the torrid blast for today, Appleton residents sweated as the hot rays of Old Sol sent the mercury up to 85 degrees above zero Thursday noon.

The new high record for the season was registered yesterday afternoon when the mercury registered 83 degrees above. One thermometer on College-ave which was exposed to the sun, registered 110 degrees at 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

Relief may arrive here tonight or Friday if showers and thunderstorms prevail. No drop in temperature has been forecast, but the possibility that thunderstorms will prevail in Appleton and vicinity tonight or tomorrow. Skies are to be cloudy tonight.

Probable showers have been predicted over most of the middlewest for the next 24 hours. Winds are shifting to the east and southeast, a good indication that wet weather is on the way.

Two More Enter Race for County Political Jobs

Honkamp Seeks Assembly Post—Verhagen Out For Sheriff

Two more candidates today entered the race for county offices, securing their nomination papers at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Elmer Honkamp, 400 W. Foster-st., will seek the Republican nomination for assemblyman from the first district, while Martin Verhagen, Kimberly, will seek the Democratic nomination for sheriff. With Verhagen's entrance in the sheriff race, there now are eight candidates for that office, four Republicans and four Democrats. The Republicans are: Edward Lutz, present undersheriff; Fred Giese, Peter G. Schwartz and Edward Draeger, all ex-sheriffs. The Democrats include: Mr. Verhagen, John Roach, Jack Ashauer and Walter Scherck. Mr. Verhagen served as sheriff, being elected on the Democratic ticket, in 1913 and 1914. He also was the Democratic nominee for this office two years ago.

Mr. Honkamp is the second candidate to declare for this office, the other being A. W. Laabs, former chairman of the town of Grand Chute. Mr. Laabs did not run for reelection to that office last spring. For many years Laabs was a prominent member of the county board. Franklin Jesse, 218 S. Oak-st., also has taken out nomination papers for this office, but he is undecided whether he will be a candidate.

Honkamp declared himself as a regular Republican and a supporter of Walter J. Kohler candidate for governor.

Coming here from Milwaukee where he had been associated in the law business with George Bowman, now district attorney for Milwaukee-co, Mr. Honkamp established his residence in Appleton about five years ago. For a year and a half he was employed as a deputy clerk in the income tax service of the federal government in Waukegan and Outagamie-cos. He started his law practice in Appleton about a year and a half ago, following his resignation from the federal service. Mr. Honkamp is a graduate of the law school at Marquette university.

Demurrer Filed In Suit for Libel

Editor Says Paper Has Been Mailed to Outagamie-co Sheriff

A demurrer in reply to the $50,000 libel suit brought June 25 against William M. Dawson, editor of the Uncensored News, a Madison newspaper, by Walter P. Melchior, New London attorney and progressive Republican delegate to the Republican National convention, for his editorial, "Our Benedict Arnolds," was supposed to have been mailed to Sheriff John Lappen here by Dawson at Madison this week. Sheriff Lappen said, however, that inasmuch as Melchior lives in Waukegan-co it is likely that the demurrer was mailed to the sheriff of that county. Sheriff Lappen had not received any mail from Dawson, he said.

Dawson's editorial in the Uncensored News edition of June 25, was considered by Melchior as damaging to his character.

In a statement this morning, Dawson declared that he mailed the demurrer on the ground that "he did not go out of his way to abuse the freedom of the press, nor did he abuse the right for a newspaper editor to criticize a public official for his acts."

The Uncensored News editor in the demurrer replies that "the complaint does not cite sufficient cause for action. No direct mention of Melchior's name was made in the editorial, Dawson declared. Representing Dawson in the case will be his brother, Gordon E. Dawson, attorney at law with Lowry and Beggs. Melchior is representing himself in the case.

DEATHS

MRS. GLADYS MANLEY COLE
Mrs. Gladys Manley Cole, Oak Park, Ill. died in Chicago Wednesday afternoon. She had submitted to an operation. She was born at Hortonville and in 1922 was married to the Rev. Walton C. Cole, pastor of the Third Unitarian church, Chicago. For a time the couple lived in Kimberly and later moved to Elcho. They moved to Chicago about four years ago.

Survivors are the widower, Oak Park, Ill.; two sons, Phillips and Bruce; one daughter, Faith. Oak Park has father, L. H. Manley, Hortonville; two sisters, Lorena and Alice, Hortonville; four brothers, Milford, Neillville; Roy, Carlyle and Nytes, all of Hortonville.

Burial services will be held at the Stephansville cemetery at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

MRS. LILLIAN BARTMANN
Mrs. Joseph Bartmann, 48, died at her home, 323 N. Locust-st. last night following an illness of six weeks. She was born in Appleton and had lived here all her life. Survivors include the widower; three daughters, Mrs. Paul Moderson, Kimberly; Mrs. Theodore Tuschek, Waukegan; and Mrs. James Hoffman, Appleton; a son, George, Edward, Robert, Fred, Walter and John Appleton; three sisters, Miss Jessie Frank, New York; Mrs. John Wiese, Little Chute, and Mrs. Fred Stump, Appleton; three brothers, Henry and Clarence Frank, Appleton, and Irvin Frank, Kimberly; and eight grandchildren. The body will lie in state at the Schommer funeral home from 2 o'clock Friday afternoon until the funeral services at 8:30 Saturday morning from the funeral home and at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph church. Interment will be in St. Joseph cemetery.

There are about 6000 French prisoners confined in French Guiana.

Contractor Shifts Crews to Night Duty To Avoid Heat of Sun

Because of the intense heat of the last few days, the pouring of concrete for the water reservoir under construction at the county asylum grounds just west of the city is being done at night, according to Thomas Flanagan, superintendent at the asylum. The contract for the reservoir is held by E. J. Piette, Inc., Appleton. About 20 men are being employed. They start work about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and work through the night with the aid of big lights. Work on the reservoir is expected to be completed within a week.

Road Paving Job To Start Monday

County Crews Will Work On Highway 54 Between Shiocton, Seymour

Improvement of Highway 54 between Shiocton and Seymour will start next Monday, according to F. R. Appleton, highway commissioner. Crushed stone for this job will be furnished by R. M. Murphy, route 2, W. De Pere, for $23,064, while tar for the surfacing will be furnished by the Barrett Company of West Virginia, Chicago, for $24,248.

Crushed stone to be supplied by Murphy will be sufficient to cover 9.3 miles of the road. Bids for crushed stone for the other 4.6 miles of the improvement were rejected by the state highway department and new bids are to be called for soon. Murphy's original bid on stone for the 9.3 miles was $24,552. Later, however, this was cut down to $23,064. The tar being furnished by the Barrett company will be sufficient to cover the entire road.

The work on this road will be done by crews working under direction of the county highway department. F. R. Appleton, commissioner, said he believed that about two months would be required to complete the job.

Charge Two Brothers With Theft of Tires

Gus and John Croell, brothers, town of Grand Chute, are being held in the county jail pending arraignment in municipal court this afternoon on charges of larceny. They were arrested yesterday by Sheriff John Lappen on charges of stealing several tires, a generator, a set of wrenches and a pump from the car of Martin Joosten, route 6, Appleton. These articles were stolen from the car as it stood in the garage at the Joosten home, Tuesday night. Sheriff Lappen said the articles were recovered from the Croell car.

Injured Woman Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital

Rescues Two From Death In Winnebago

Fireman Works More Than Hour on Unconscious Girl to Revive Her

Miss Ada Clow, 16, Kaukauna, and Miss Dorothy White, 16, Marinette, probably owe their lives today to Edwin Kline, 913 E. Pacific, a member of the Appleton fire department.

Kline went to the girls' rescue when they stepped into deep water along the shore of Lake Winnebago, east of the Menasha municipal beach, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and brought both girls ashore. Miss Clow was unconscious and Kline worked for an hour and a quarter before he resuscitated her. She then was taken to her home in an ambulance. She was still in bed today, suffering from shock and weakness.

Only the fact that Kline had an expert knowledge of resuscitation saved the girls' life, according to her mother, Mrs. D. D. Clow, 401 Wisconsin-ave, Kaukauna. Chester Smith Appleton, who helped Kline, worked on Miss White, but she had been able to keep herself partially afloat until help arrived.

According to Mrs. Clow the two girls, who had been bathing at the Menasha beach, started to walk along the shore of the lake. Suddenly, when in front of the cottage of Mrs. V. E. Rule of Appleton, they sank in a hole which Mrs. Clow said was made by dredgers. They called for help and Kline, who was working nearby, jumped into a boat and rowed out to them. They were less than a hundred yards from shore.

The White girl could swim a little, but Miss Clow, who was unable to swim, sank immediately. Kline first pulled Miss White into the boat and then he started to look for the Clow girl. Seeing her beneath the surface of the water, he caught hold of her hair, pulled her to the boat and lifted her in. Putting her face downward across one of the seats, he started for shore. As soon as he got there he carried the girl into Mrs. Rule's cottage and started to apply first aid methods. In the meantime Mr. Smith was caring for the White girl.

For more than an hour Mr. Kline worked on the girl before signs of life returned and it was possible to remove her to her home.

Rockefeller Is Certain He Will Live to be 100

Interviewer Says Millionaire Is Not Doddering Old Man

BY DEXTER TEED
Tarrytown, N. Y.—John D. Rockefeller, who has just passed his ninety-third birthday with the prediction that he will live to be 100 years old is really convinced he will reach the century mark.

Old John D. is enjoying pitting his wits against the phantom adversary, death, as much as he did battling competitors in the business world. Despite rumors to the contrary, he is not a doddering old man on the brink of the grave. "Millions do not mean much any more," he told a guest whom this writer interviewed. "I like everybody, am interested in the game of life, and I find pleasure in watching my condition and doing the things that keep me healthy."

It's a System
Rockefeller watches himself objectively, as he would have regarded a sick corporation in the days when he was in big business. Few mistakes are made in his carefully scheduled living.

Activity is followed by rest, food is eaten sparingly, he will not allow himself to worry, he doesn't smoke nor drink, he practices moderation in all things, he enjoys music, and the beauty of his Poncan manor. He is sure, and he always says when he begins to tire, not to worry.

The way he plays golf is typical of the rest of his life.

He sometimes plays nine holes. If he doesn't feel tired, and if he has time at the end of the third hole, he will stop there. He shows unusual skill in golf. When he drives his backswing is deliberate slow. Then he hits the ball from 150 to 165 yards. Once, a guest told this writer, he drove nearly 200 yards. He was so elated he yelled joyously, like a boy, and waved his club in the air. Then he chuckled for a full minute.

His routine shows how he conserves his energy by preventive rather than curative measures.

His valet wakes him at 7. He dresses, then strolls in the garden for a few minutes. Family prayers at 8 are followed by breakfast. He eats a little cereal, drinks hot milk or a little coffee and frequently eats a roll. On rare occasions he has a poached egg. He eats very slowly.

Before leaving the table he chats with members of his family. From then until 10 o'clock he reads correspondence, attends to business and has his valet read him the important news. After a short rest he is ready for golf. It is chiefly he dresses warmly. On windy days he wears a paper vest under his coat. This he says, is light and keeps out the wind.

The guest whom this writer interviewed tells of one time when it started to rain as John D. prepared to putt. The old man stopped, ordered his rain equipment, pulled the flaps on his cap over his ears, then while his caddy held the umbrella over his head he deliberately stroked the ball into the cup—and smiled.

After golf is over he rests a few minutes, then goes to lunch at 1. He usually eats soup and occasionally a bite or two of some kind of sweets. Another rest is followed by an automobile ride.

From 5 to 7 o'clock he sleeps and rests some more. Dinner, his largest meal, includes carefully cooked meats and plenty of vegetables. He never eats very sparingly and when he is through has hunger as never wholly satisfied. At this meal guests are invited frequently and pleasant conversation keeps him in good humor. He won't allow himself to be unnerved by anything and thus his mind is always placid and serene.

The evening is spent playing games, chatting with guests or having somebody read to him. A private movie machine projects pictures he wishes to see. He goes to bed sharply at 10 o'clock to sleep until 7 the next morning. On Sundays he varies the routine by going to church.

His baritone voice is still strong. He speaks in a drawl, reminiscent of the country people who lived in his home town of Richford, N. Y. His hearing is only slightly affected and he reads ordinary print with glasses. To protect his eyes, he wears colored glasses in bright sunlight.

A broken old man at 60, suffering from dyspepsia, by careful living he conquered his infirmities.

MAN OR WOMAN?
They were standing before a large painting entitled "Echo" in an art gallery.

"I suppose," said one man, "it is appropriate to depict Echo as a woman, because she always has the last word."

"On the other hand," returned the second man, "an echo speaks only when spoke to."—T.T.B.S.

Conduct Catholic Vacation Schools

18 Such Programs Now in Progress in Diocese of Green Bay

A Catholic religious vacation school is being conducted at Manawa by the Rev. C. A. Dionne. This school is one of the 18 vacation schools now in progress in the diocese of Green Bay. There are approximately 1,000 pupils enrolled in the 18 schools.

The vacation schools, held in parishes which have no parochial school of their own, this year are directed by Miss Edmire Quinlan, chairman of the project in the Diocesan Council of Catholic schools, working through the office of the diocesan superintendent of schools, Dr. E. J. Westenberg.

They are conducted by sisters of various orders, who devote a part of each summer to the religious education of children deprived of Catholic school training. As in previous years, the sisterhoods represented are the Racine Dominicans, Notre Dames, St. Josephs and Franciscans of Alverno and Bay Settlement.

Catechism and Bible history are taught by the sisters, and the older children are prepared for first communion. The period of the vacation school varies from three to six weeks, depending upon how much time can be devoted to each group. In some parishes there are missions to be served also, and this increases the number to be accommodated. The sisters are sent out in pairs to Parishes and pastor having vacation schools this year are as follows: Root, Rev. B. E. Barta; White Lake, Rev. A. Trzaskowski; Tsch Mills, Rev. J. Schaeffer; Tsch Mills, Rev. James Hodek; Lanark, Rev. D. Krembs; Wausauke, Rev. L. M. Schorn; Crivitz, Rev. B. Halejka; Pound, Rev. B. Hoppa; Bailey's Harbor and Sister Bay, Rev. F. X. McGann, O. M. I.; Dyckesville, Marchant and Thiry Deams, Rev. R. G. Londo; Antigio, St. Mary's, Rev. E. Shimek; Manawa, Rev. C. A. Dionne; Walsh and Wagner, Rev. P. Kaminski; and Northem, Rev. I. Wosniowski.

The vacation school movement, like study clubs and the Catholic girls' camp, is becoming better known each year through the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women which has these three projects for its principal object in organization.

APARTMENT HOUSE DISTRICTS

A contributor to the People's Forum on this page raises the question of whether the common council, by implying a halo of sacredness to the zoning ordinance is not depriving the city of facilities which might increase its growth and prosperity. His argument, actuated by the council's refusal to permit erection of an apartment house in a residential district, in brief is that while the zoning ordinance is designed to protect our citizens in the enjoyment of their property it was never intended as a club to prevent improvements or facilities for the benefit of the city as a whole.

While this newspaper has always been a staunch defender of the zoning ordinance, contending that it cannot be effective unless amendments and changes are made with extreme caution, it does not hold to the view that it is so sacred or so perfect that changing conditions and changing situations should not be recognized. It does believe, however, that such changes and amendments as are made must be the result of a carefully considered program entirely divorced from any immediate pressure or expediency.

It is a fact, quite indisputable, that Appleton has not kept pace with other cities in the matter of apartment houses and it is quite generally agreed that a number of worthwhile citizens might be attracted to our city if suitable apartments were provided. No one, not even the staunchest defenders of the zoning ordinance, dispute this. The rock which has wrecked apartment house projects in the past has been disagreement over where apartments might be located.

If we are willing to recognize that apartments are desirable we then should be willing to arrange our affairs so that they will be possible. But to attempt to do this under the pressure of an immediate necessity is likely to result in injustice or in stalemates such as have attended these projects in the past. The time to amend the zoning ordinance to provide for apartments is when there is no immediate project pending so that the question can be discussed objectively, free from the pressure of immediate need.

There are a number of areas in Appleton that are highly suitable for apartments and which might be included in apartment house districts without causing loss or distress to other properties in the district. The thing for the council to do now, while there is no particular project officially pending before it, is to determine these areas, rewrite the zoning ordinance to include them, call the special hearings required by law, and take such other steps as will definitely outline the districts in which apartments can be erected. If that is done, promoters of apartment house projects will know where they can acquire property without fear of neighborhood difficulties and persons living within the areas will know what to expect from the future. There is neither justice nor good business in permitting men to spend their time and money in promoting projects of this nature only to discover later that the zoning ordinance makes no provision for them.

If the common council will appoint a commission competent to consider all the angles involved to map areas suitable for apartment houses and then will take the steps necessary to amend the zoning ordinance to include these districts, it will have gone a long way toward providing Appleton with these desirable facilities. To continue its policy of waiting until a project is well underway before determining where an apartment can or cannot be erected is simply depriving the city of improvements that it needs.

ENFORCING THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

Many persons will sit back in contemplative reflection on the nature of the mental processes by which many of their fellow men arrive at bizarre conclusions. Economists, business leaders and politicians are feverishly active in searching out the causes of and cures for economic distress. Even religious leaders, delving deep into the morals of men and nations have, with good reason no doubt, offered evidence that selfish materialism has obliterated many of the spiritual values which are so vital and necessary to human relationships and world progress.

But it remains for one Noah Cooper of Nashville, Tennessee, representing himself as "the voice of Southern Methodism," to reduce moral issues to monetary values in an attempt to solve our economic difficulties.

Appearing before the Interstate Commerce commission, Mr. Cooper filed a petition that all railroads be required to discontinue their Sunday operations, except in cases of emergency or for charitable purposes. Mr. Cooper, in his petition, expressed his belief that all the ills of the railroads were traceable directly to their violation of the divine command to keep the Sabbath holy.

On the ground that the commission was without jurisdiction and without authority "to enforce the Ten Commandments, or any one of them," the Pennsylvania railroad, in collaboration with others, asked that the petition be dismissed.

The surprising thing about this case is that the Interstate Commerce commission, having heretofore exercised considerable jurisdiction over railway morals, admitted the soundness of the railroads' viewpoint by deciding against the Cooper petition.

When government begins to recognize a limit to its power for moral supervision, as it has in this case, there is hope of life in the old dog yet.

THE FORCED PLEA OF GUILTY

"The Allied and Associated Governments affirm and Germany accepts the responsibility of Germany and her allies for causing all the loss and damage to which the Allied and Associated Governments and their nationals have been subjected as a consequence of the war imposed upon them by the aggression of Germany and her allies."

So speaks the language of Article 231 of the Versailles Treaty which has provoked such bitter controversy in German internal politics as well as the charge against the Allied and Associated Governments that, with Germany prostrate, it was far from a manly course to force the confession, always valueless when extorted, that the whipped party "was the cause of it all."

Shame or remorse among the Allies for having compelled a great nation in order to obtain peace to sign a confession of culpability which it in reality loudly protested and denied, has appeared in numerous quarters and taken varied forms.

M. Mantoux who was connected officially with the Supreme Council has written that the Article in controversy has nothing to do with "the origins of the war, nor of a condemnation solemnly pronounced against Germany nor even of giving the system of reparations a moral basis. What they desired was to write into the treaty, the theoretical principle of the pecuniary responsibility of Germany."

From another source comes an explanation having to do with the translation of the treaty stating that "Though 'aggression' in French simply means a physical attack, in English the word has taken on a flavor of ethical condemnation. And the Germans, in hastily translating the treaty text, unfortunately rendered the phrase 'responsibility for causing all the loss' into 'responsibility as originators for all losses.' The original text stated a physical fact: the German version shaded this into something implying deliberate intention."

And yet it seems that the more the treaty is examined and all the facts having to do with its writing are churned about, the more clear becomes the conclusion that the hatreds engendered by the long strife had so affected the vision and impaired the judgment of Allied statesmen as to lead them to the error of a forced, a choked confession, from a defeated and defenseless foe, an indefensible as well as grossly unparliamentary procedure.

The very effort of apologists for the Allied nations to construe the treaty or explain it as not forcing an admission of war guilt from Germany after she had surrendered her fate into the hands of her enemies, is perhaps as strong evidence in Germany's favor as might be obtained, so labored and difficult a time of it do these writers have. Would it not be better for the entire atmosphere of international transactions were the Allied nations to declare in so many honest and measured words that Article 231 constituted an unjust imposition upon a surrendered foe, must be erased from the treaty, and the responsibility for the war tossed back into the lap of history where everyone may for days without end discuss and decide it just as they please depending, of course, upon what language they speak and upon which side of the Rhine they till the soil?

Meanwhile this Article has become a great fall arousing the German people as only a matter of the spirit may arouse a proud race.

For years Hitler and his associates have declared: "We want Germany cleared from the war guilt and if the world refuses we will tear up the Treaty of Versailles. We do not care about money matters, with us the nation's honor comes first."

That is a strong, a compelling argument, and the worst part of it for the rest of the world lies in its apparent truth.

A GOLF BALL TALKS

The little golf ball on the tee
Looked up and said these things to me:
"Why do you wiggle so and twist
And set your teeth and clench your fist,
And dive and lunge and blindly strike,
When you may take what time you like,
Since from this spot I cannot go
Until you choose to launch the blow?"

"I'm fixed. I cannot dodge or stir,
Then why the haste to club me, sir?
And why that dismal look of fear?
Are you afraid I won't be here?
If you more slowly should proceed?
You'll calmly clip a growing weed.
The passing summer breezes sway,
But here immovable I stay."

"What is it makes you lift your head,
And what about me do you dread?
I do not bite or scratch with claws;
I am quite content to serve your cause.
So violently at me you whack
I think you fear I may strike back.
In all the years you've tried to play
You've never seen me run away."

"So still upon the ground I sit
I'll vow I am not hard to hit,
But you look down on me with eyes
In which the light of terror lies.
You grunt and groan and fume and fret,
Lunge hastily, and quite forget
That you may take what time you will
And I shall here be waiting still."

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 18, 1907

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kern, Peshigo, visited with the family of E. P. Brown on Rankin-st the previous evening.

Miss Emma A. Martinson had left for New York City where she was to visit with friends and relatives until early in September.

Miss Birdie Farrell was hostess the previous day to her music students at an outing at Brighton beach.

Philip Johnson of Madison was in the city to spend several weeks at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Johnson, Alton-st.

Miss Gertrude Miller and daughter, Gladys, visited with friends at Meshua the preceding day.

Miss Elsie Younger left that day on a two weeks' trip to the Dells.

Mr. and Mrs. George Woelz had returned from their wedding trip through the east.

Henry Dachelet and family left that day on a trip to Spokane, Wash., where they were to make their future home.

Mrs. William Tesch and daughter, Evelyn, left that morning for a two weeks' trip to Milwaukee, Chicago and other points.

TEN YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 13, 1922

Views of the various interests concerned in the question of the legality of the sale of intoxicating liquor on American vessels on the high seas as well as foreign vessels coming within the three mile limit, were sought by Attorney General Daugherty on opening hearings on the matter that day prior to tendering a formal opinion.

The marriage of Miss Rose Shapiro, daughter of Mrs. S. Shapiro, 734 Ida-st. and Charles J. Meyer, Rochester, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Meyer, took place at 5 o'clock the previous afternoon at the home of the bride's mother.

Mrs. E. Nelson, 758, Meade-st, left the previous day for Crystal Lake to spend a week.

Max Schwab was at Hilbert and Stockbridge that day on business.

Mrs. Mary Borrier left the previous Saturday for Sturgeon Bay where she was to spend the summer at the home of her daughter.

Fred Sievert and daughter, Laura, were to leave the following day for Rockford, Ill., where they were to spend a short time with relatives and friends.

TERMS SPEECH HIGHEST STATESMANSHIP

The address of Alfred E. Smith in Washington was not only one of the best speeches of this sincere man's career but one of the most constructive utterances of a period that has been too full of denunciation and too lacking in perspicacity to give a majority of his fellow-partisan effort to restore good times. Not all countrymen will go the whole way with Mr. Smith in his list of remedies. Great broad issues for public works are an artificial remedy at best. The reopening of the tariff law would disturb business in many quarters. But Mr. Smith's call to his fellow-Democrats to turn from finding fault with the Republican party and map their own road to prosperity was uttered in the spirit of the best Americanism and the highest statesmanship.

Mr. Smith furthermore contributed to the discussion of ways and means an idea which is certain to attract wide attention. It is as simple as the language which the former governor habitually employs. What the so-called experts in Washington will think of a proposal so unusual yet so simple remains to be seen, but it will be discussed eagerly on both sides of the Atlantic.—New York Sun.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN AN IRRESISTABLE FORCE MEETS AN IMMOVABLE BODY?

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

EYE EXERCISE IS JUST EYE WATER

A while ago a 74-year-old lad told us here how he had kept his eyesight strong by means of regular eye exercises or rather massage which he had practiced for many years, with the result that he now has perfect eyesight and needs no glasses for work or reading.

An optometrist—who is not necessarily an optimist, you must understand—tells me the 74-year-old who needs no glasses is not such an exceptional case; he probably has 3D myopia (that, I think, means a certain degree of nearsightedness) or one eye may be emmetropic—and there I can't follow the optometrist any further. But he goes on to say that many persons with 2D or 3D of myopia go thru life without glasses and declare their eyes are stronger than their neighbors. The optometrist cites an acquaintance who at 70 is slightly myopic in one eye and hyperopic (far sighted) in the other but has never worn glasses, nor has he had any eye massage, Bates or absent treatments for his eyes. This 70-year-old gentleman thinks it is foolish for folks to wear glasses.

Well, the more I learn about it the less I know.

Optometrists, opticians, oculists and their clients, customers or patients all have their ideas and while they're telling you it seems quite plausible, but no two of them agree about anything. That's what frazzles my nerves so.

The last three oculists I consulted clearly had no definite opinion or advice to offer when I asked whether it was better for me to wear a lens for distant vision or to omit it as long as my distant vision was good without glasses.

The last two optometrists I have consulted about the same thing were quite firm about it at the take-off, but before they got far with the argument they, too, became vague and confused.

So I wear my glasses when I wish and leave 'em off whenever I feel like it.

My own notion—I am not an eye expert, however—is that all these eye massage and eye exercise ideas are the bunk. Not that they do any harm, but I regard such practices as a silly waste of time.

From the physiological viewpoint—and here I do profess to be an expert—just looking at things, preferably distant things, landscapes or scenery without undue effort to make out detail, is the most healthful eye exercise one can take. Mind, I am not saying that rolling your eyes good-goo is not exercise or not without benefit in some instances. Perhaps it would be a good thing for some minds to concentrate on even such a task for a moment now and then.

If you feel that your eyes need exercise, at any rate there is no sense in subscribing to a make-order course in the mysteries of rolling your eyes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Close Your Mouth

I sleep with my mouth open. Is this unhealthy? How can I stop it? (J. E. B.)

Answer—It is not a healthful habit. We should breathe thru the mouth only during extraordinary exertion or when swimming. Try to sleep in lateral semi-prone position, not on your back, and with no pillow or only a thin one under your head. If there is any obstruction of one or both sides of the nose, have it treated by the physician.

It Means There's No Such Thing Kindly inform me what your statement that there is no such thing as nervous exhaustion means. I have been trying for years to build up a shattered nervous system. (M. F.)

Answer—It means there's no such thing. Nerves neither produce nor expend energy. They serve merely to carry impulses, messages. Does it exhaust the wires to carry the impulse when you ring the doorbell? My motive was to persuade misguided victims like yourself to cut the futile quest for "building up," and to consult a physician who will endeavor to find out what ails you. But for your health's sake leave your "shattered nervous system" out of the interview. That's sheer humbug, and only a quack takes it seriously.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

Of course when Duncy found that he had caved the horse in, he said, "Gee! I really didn't mean to spoil the fun that was in store."

"I thought that I could take a ride upon the funny-looking horse. I promise I'll behave and not pull mean tricks any more."

"You better not," said Windy. "We were getting on just famously, when suddenly we took a plop and almost bent in two."

"You might have known we couldn't hold a lad like you, but I won't scold. We'll straighten up the horse and then some more good tricks we'll do."

It didn't take them long to get back into shape. "Well, now we're set to try a little jumping," shouted Coppy, with a grin.

"Hold up a stick and we will try to jump right over. Me, oh my, I'm sure that we'll be clever and I can't wait to begin."

The stick was held just off the ground. The Tynies swung the horse around and Scouty shouted, "All right, go! The jump is not so steep."

But, when wee Windy did his jump, he kicked poor Coppy with a thump. It didn't hurt the lad, but they both landed in a heap.

Poor Windy crawled out of the mess and very shortly said, "I guess that we have had enough of that." And Coppy quite agreed.

Just then brave Scouty shouted, "Hey! A balloon is coming right this way. Twill land here very shortly 'cause it's coming down with speed."

The big balloon soon reached the ground and all the Tynies gathered round. A man stepped out of it and said, "Who wants to take a ride?"

"We do! We do!" the Tynies said. "We'd like to sail 'round over-head." The man then snapped right back at them, "All right, then, crawl inside."

(The Tynies meet with an accident in their balloon, in the next story.)

Nor is it understood that the backers of this project are asking Appleton people to grant them any donation, concession or favor whatever.

The backers of this apartment house might easily get the impression that they were not wanted in Appleton. Notwithstanding that they have studied the local field for two years, and from that study have convinced that Appleton will support, through a liberal patronage, the full facilities they propose to build, the backers will likely turn to other fields where they are shown a greater welcome. It would seem that anyone with the courage and initiative to risk his money in Appleton in these depression times ought to get a "hand."

Why try to tell them where they should locate their own properties? They are spending their own money and taking their own risks. They are reputed to be experienced operators, with excellent financial background. They know this apartment house business, and few of us here do.

The neighboring property owners are certainly entitled to their opinions and their rights, if they are numbered among the objectors. They must muster enough legal frontage to make their objections stand. Some of the quoted objectors seem to be from locations outside the areas contemplated in the 1923 ordinance as having a legal right to protest.

And what about the present owners of the land? With a laudable spirit of cooperation, they tried to give this property away for a worthy cause, not so long ago. Their offer was turned down. Now they have a rare opportunity to sell it—and again they are prevented. The property is presently unoccupied and unproductive. What must they do with it, in order to satisfy the tyranny of this zoning law?

The writer has no interest whatever in the property to be sold, nor a dime's worth in the operating company. As a local resident, he knows what thousands of Appleton people already know—that scores of desirable families may become permanent residents of this city if they were offered the facilities of modern apartment house construction.

Finance Body Loans Probed By Senators

Special Committee Demands Records of Reconstruction Group

Washington.—An inquiry into every loan that has been made by the Reconstruction corporation was undertaken today by a special senate committee with a demand for the relief organization's records.

High up in the committee's program was the design to scan the $30,000,000 that went to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, of which Charles C. Dawes, former head of the corporation, is chairman.

That loan has been cited in congress as the largest to any bank, some voicing suggestions of favoritism.

The request for a detailed report of loans was embodied in a letter from Chairman Couzens of the special committee to Eugene Meyer, head of the board.

"I am authorized by the committee to ask you to furnish us as quickly as possible a complete list of all loans, the date of maturity, the rate of interest and the security pledged, since the organization of the corporation," Couzens wrote.

The Michigan Republican told newspapermen it probably would take the corporation several days to compile the information, but that the inquiry would go ahead as speedily as possible. Couzens added no experts would be hired, committee members doing the investigating work themselves.

All Loans Not Public
Details of all the loans will not be made public. The committee was authorized to report whatever it feels should be called to the attention of the senate.

Determination to study the loan to the Dawes bank was indicated by Couzens in asking the senate to approve his resolution for the inquiry. He called attention to the discussion of the loan and said:

"There is, in my judgment, considerable unrest in respect to the type of loans and the security that is being put up for the loans aggregating $1,000,000,000 already made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation."

"In view of the circumstances, it occurred to me that a senate committee might examine the records and see whether the loans were being made in accordance with the law and that they were adequately secured."

The loan was criticized in the house yesterday by Representative Sabath (D., Ill.) who said the corporation "could have saved a number of small banks in Chicago and declined to act."

It's the Cigarette that's Milder and Tastes Better!

That's why more and more Smokers are changing to Chesterfield every day

WHEN you are smoking a lot of cigarettes every day, you naturally want a mild cigarette, and smokers try Chesterfields and find out that they are milder and taste better.

Then smokers tell other smokers—"one smoker telling another"—that they find that although they smoke a great many Chesterfields during the day, they never tire of them; and that they have found out that Chesterfield is a milder cigarette, that it is a cigarette that tastes better, that it is a cigarette with a most pleasing aroma.

Some time ago, in a Chesterfield advertisement, there was a statement, "A $90,000,000 Reason," and this means that the larger part of $90,000,000 is invested in the right kind of ripe, mild Domestic and Turkish tobaccos to make sure that Chesterfields are milder and taste better.

May we ask you to try them?

Make Plans For Picnic Next Week

PLANS for the annual picnic of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Eagle at Pierce park were made at the meeting Wednesday afternoon at Eagle hall. Cards will be played during the afternoon and a picnic lunch will be served. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Freda Moore, chairman; Mrs. Mary Dohr, Mrs. Clara Yelg, Mrs. Anna Doerfler, Mrs. Mary Boldt, and Mrs. Katherine Hoffman. Each member is to bring her own sandwiches, one covered dish, and the dishes she will need.

Cards were played at the social hour which followed the meeting. Prizes being won by Mrs. Caroline Krazhold, Mrs. Luella Freiberg, and Mrs. Freda Moore. Twenty-five members were present.

Preparations for a picnic to be held at the Gehin cottage at Lake Winnebago July 19 for women of the Moose and their children were made at the meeting of the chapter Wednesday night at Moose hall. Each member will bring her own sandwiches, one covered dish, and her own dishes.

Thirty members were present at the meeting. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Marie Cavert, chairman; Mrs. Amy Hoffman, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, Mrs. Gertrude Willmarson, Miss Mary Schneider, and Mrs. Theresa Leftwich. The next meeting will be held August 10.

A picnic luncheon and informal social afternoon entertained Alpha Daphnia chapter Wednesday at the cottage of Mrs. George Schmidt, Lake Winnebago. Twenty-four persons were present. Mrs. Frank Wheeler was chairman of the party and Mrs. Mabel Shannon and Mrs. H. L. Playman were assistants.

Arrangements were made for another picnic for members to be held August 4 at the Werner cottage on Shawano lake. Mrs. L. J. Marshall is chairman of the event.

Rebekah Three Links club held a picnic Wednesday at the Harvey Younger cottage at Waverly beach. Fourteen members were present. During the afternoon, cards and swimming provided the entertainment. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Josephine Burhans, Mrs. Stella Sharp, and Mrs. John McCarter in charge.

Deborah lodge will hold a picnic next Wednesday at Pierce park for members and their families.

A covered dish picnic will be held by the Sunshine club Friday afternoon at Pierce park. A short business meeting will take place at 2:30 and the picnic for members and their children will follow. Officers will be in charge of the program, and there will be games for the children. Each member will bring her own dishes, sandwiches, and one covered dish.

Mrs. Joseph Schultz and Mrs. P. Neuman won the prizes at cards at the meeting of Four Leaf Clover club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Schultz, W. Seymour-st. The next meeting will be next Tuesday with Mrs. Max Eggert, 918 E. Winnebago-st.

The N. S. club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie Tollefson, Meade-st. Eight members and two visitors were present. The next meeting will be August 10 at Pierce park. Mrs. Lawrence Guthu and Mrs. William Mountain will be hostesses.

The B. to Z. club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hoppe, 1002 W. Oklahama-st. Bridge was played and prizes won by Mrs. Joseph Ditter and Mrs. W. Brenzel, Kaukauna. The club will meet in a month at Mrs. August Wachholz, Kaukauna.

Mrs. Hunt Wins Prize For Fewest Putts at Women's Golf Tourney

Mrs. J. F. Hunt, Neenah, won the prize for the least number of putts for the first nine holes in the ladies' day tournament Wednesday at Butte des Morts Golf club. She took 14 putts. Mrs. W. H. Legion Junior Nine Awarded County Title

Neenah Team Again Defeats Oshkosh in Competition

Neenah — The Neenah-Menasha Kiwanis Junior baseball team, coached by Joseph Muench, won the county championship Wednesday afternoon by copping the second game of a series of three games from the Oshkosh Legion team, 10 and 4 at Lakeview diamond. The locals defeated the Oshkosh Monday afternoon 6 and 4. The team will now continue competition against teams of other counties.

The visitors scored one run in the second inning on a hit to right field where both right and center fielders attempted to catch the ball at the same time. The visitors then rested until the ninth inning, when the remaining three runs came in. At no time was there any danger of losing on the part of the Neenah boys who played a brilliant game. Bob Madman and Sindahl circled the bases three times. Menning was on the mound for the first inning and was replaced by Weisgerber, who carried the load to the end of the game. Several times the Oshkosh team had the bags filled and had chances to score, but Weisgerber tightened. Gunz, a little lad, started the pitching for the visitors but was relieved by Muggy in the third inning after three runs had been scored by Neenah.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd. To win the honors the team has defeated Winneconne and Oshkosh.

Tennis Tourney Is Nearing End

Players in Upper Bracket Meeting for Places in Semi-Finals

Neenah—The junior playground annual tennis tournament is drawing toward the end, with the upper bracket players playing for a place in the semi-finals, and lower bracket boys having reached the semi-finals.

In the upper bracket Robert Larson will play Walter Boerson and the winner will play Ernest Gollnow, who defeated Jack Lemberg. In the lower bracket P. Strange will play William Nash for semi-final place, Strange having defeated Charles Hanson and Nash having defeated H. Strange.

On next Monday and Tuesday, men's doubles are to be played in the annual men's closed tournament. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the girls' junior tournament will be started and on Saturday and Sunday the men's closed singles events will get under way. The following weeks the men's closed doubles will be started.

In the Wednesday night baseball games Haase, Klinka, Rhoades defeated Neenah Papers, Shell Oils defeated Burts Candies, but the Shell team forfeiting because of too many out of city players in its lineup. Island Merchants defeated Angermeyer Plumbers by one run.

Private Concerns to Offer Bus Service

Neenah—The city council at its next meeting will have applications from several private concerns seeking to furnish bus or taxi service in the twin cities. A recent change of schedule of the Wisconsin Michigan Light and Power company, which removed bus service within the two cities after noon and during the evening hours has placed the cities without service. Especially at noon, when many people employed in the various offices and mills are unable to get to their homes for the noon hour, is the present service inadequate as the last bus leaves here at 11:30. Those who are to apply for the privilege will furnish service to all parts of the city for a specified price which will not be more than the present bus rate. An effort will be made to extend a service to the cemetery and fourth ward.

Third Band Concert On Saturday Evening

Neenah—The third of the weekly concerts by the high school band is to be given Saturday evening, the place has not yet been selected. It is probably that it will be at Doty park or on the island part of the city.

The band is practicing every morning during the summer vacation under direction of Lester Maas. All of the players who graduated last June are still with the band to assist in the summer concert work.

Valley Tennis Meet Starts on Saturday

Neenah—The Fox River Valley Tennis tournament will start at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Oshkosh, with more than 40 players entered. Semi-finals are slated for Sunday forenoon with finals in the afternoon. George Laborde of Appleton won the last title with Amos of Milwaukee, runner-up. Both will be back this year to defend their titles. Players from all cities of the valley have been entered in the two-day event.

Orioles in Easy Win Over Married Men

Menasha—Scoring almost at will, the Orioles romped to an easy 17 to 7 victory over the Second ward Married men's team in a non-conference tilt on the Wisconsin Tissue Mills diamond Wednesday evening. The Orioles, regular Oriole hurler, worked on the mound for the married men, but his support faltered on several occasions to contribute to the Oriole victory. Spellman was the winning pitcher.

The Orioles will clash with the Dornbrook builders, Falcon league team, on the Tissue Mills diamond Thursday evening and have scheduled games with Kaukauna and New London teams, both of which will be played on the Tissue Mills diamond here Sunday.

Placed on Probation For Disorderly Conduct

Menasha — Joseph Quella, 701 Taylor-st., arraigned in the court of Justice J. Kolashinski Thursday morning on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs or sentenced to 30 days in the Winnebago go-go jail. Justice Kolashinski suspended sentence, however, and placed Quella on probation for six months. Quella was arrested at his home by Menasha police Wednesday evening.

Discharge Buchert From Custody of Probation Officer

Arrest Followed Alleged Wireworks Plant

Menasha—Defense arguments on a writ of habeas corpus returned in the circuit court of Judge Fred Beglinger at Oshkosh Thursday morning resulted in the discharge of Edward Buchert of Appleton from the custody of Robert H. Davis, state probation officer for the board of control.

Defense counsel alleged in obtaining the writ that Buchert's arrest during a labor disturbance at Menasha June 18 was illegal and that Municipal Judge Spengler, who ordered him placed on probation following a jury conviction on an assault and battery charge, exceeded his jurisdiction in so doing and that the court had lost jurisdiction in failing to pronounce sentence immediately upon receipt of a jury verdict.

Arrest of Buchert and Harold Hammer, followed alleged demonstrations at the International Wireworks plant in Menasha June 18. The alleged demonstration was made in protest against the operation of the plant by non-union labor while the union strike is in progress. Both Buchert and Hammer are former employees of the firm. In the assault and battery case it was alleged that Buchert struck William Lemke, a bookkeeper at the plant, with an egg.

In the habeas corpus proceeding for Buchert's release it also was contended that if the municipal court had original jurisdiction, which is denied on account of circumstances surrounding the arrest, jurisdiction was lost when judgment was rendered beyond the power and jurisdiction of the court. It was alleged that the court had no power to place Buchert under the state board of control. It also was alleged that jurisdiction was lost when the judge failed to pronounce a sentence on fine or jail immediately on receipt of the jury verdict and by failure of the municipal court to tax costs and perfect judgment within a reasonable length of time.

The trial of Harold Hammer also of Appleton, arrested with Buchert and charged with assault and battery, opened in municipal court at Oshkosh Thursday morning.

Youths Recovering From Severe Burns

Menasha—Painfully injured when a package of 60 firecrackers exploded in his pocket on the Fourth of July, Alvin Lopez, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lopez 440 Second-st., was able to be about Wednesday for the first time since the accident. The boy was severely burned by the firecrackers but is expected to suffer no permanent ill effects.

Pettibone-Peabody Co. of Appleton. The general manager of this company, John H. Neller, wrote as follows:

"It is with pleasure that we extend to your organization our sincerest congratulations and best wishes as you enter your new home.

"The fine attractive business home which you have erected fittingly evidences the enterprise of your institution and gives our community a civic structure of which it, too, justly can and will be proud."

"You are to be congratulated upon the splendid achievements of the past year," wrote Dr. Henry W. Wriston, president of Lawrence college. "The new building is a splendid addition to the city and shows a faith in the future of the town and in your own enterprise which contrasts greatly with the prevailing pessimism. The new type and layout have improved the appearance of your paper very greatly."

Wisconsin publishers, almost without exception, expressed their delight with the Post-Crescent's new home. Ralph Kingsley publisher of the Kenosha Evening News, president of the Wisconsin Daily League and past-president of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, declared that "you now have the most modern and beautiful newspaper building in the state of Wisconsin and I truthfully hope that you will always continue to hold this edge on all the other newspapers of the state."

William P. Huffman, editor and manager of the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune at Wisconsin Rapids, said the new building made a tremendous impression on him.

"You have no conception of the manner on which I rejoice with you in the completion and occupancy of that beautiful and wonderfully efficient new plant," Huffman wrote. "It is my sincere hope that the Post-Crescent will enjoy and receive the fullest measure of public confidence, appreciation and wholehearted support of Appleton and community. Surely you are justly deserving of such genuine consideration for your courage in erecting such a building and plant."

"Congratulations came not only from newspaper publishers but from others in industries allied with newspapers. Burt Williams, head of the public service department of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper Co. of Wisconsin Rapids, was lavish in his praise of the Post-Crescent's enterprise.

"It must be a source of great pride to realize that you have been able to make such an inspirational contribution to the architectural beauty of your city," Williams said. "I know from conversation with various daily newspaper publishers that you have fired others with enthusiasm to do something along the same line for their respective communities."

Neenah Guards Show In Boxing Matches

Neenah—Sergeant Howard Aderhold and Private George Henery of Headquarters company are providing entertainment for the annual guard encampment with their boxing matches. Aderhold won a decision over Peterson of Co. I, 128th infantry, and in a stirring battle between Henery and Nelson of Co. I, 128th infantry, the Neenah boy won on a knockout. Both bouts were on the same card earlier in the week.

Postpone Meeting of Board of Education

Menasha—A meeting of the board of education to consider bids for the provision of coal for school use during the 1932-33 term, scheduled for Wednesday evening at the office of Superintendent J. E. Kutowski, was postponed until Friday evening. Similar bids were received at a special meeting last month but were rejected.

Baby Very Cross. Eczema Covered Head. Healed by Cuticura.

"Not very long ago my baby became very cross and started scratching his head. Then eczema broke out in a little blister that later scaled over. He kept scratching and the patch became larger, and soon his head was covered with it. His hair was dry and lifeless. He was very restless and could only sleep a few minutes at a time.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and he was greatly relieved after the first treatment. I continued using them and in one month he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Roy M. Holton, 250 S. Dixie Highway, Flint, Mich., Feb. 4, 1932.

Empire Trade To be Center Of Conference

Nations in Group Hope to Benefit Economically At Ottawa Conclave

BY O. L. MORRISON
(Associated Press Cable Editor)

New York—(AP)—The Imperial Economic conference which opens at Ottawa July 21 is really a meeting of the board of directors of the British Empire.

Things have changed since the days before the war, and like every other large corporation the empire must seek new sources of income and new markets for its goods.

In the old days the mother country could count on a large income from loans made abroad. She sold her goods where she could and bought where the price was best.

Now the empire is paying instead of collecting. It is harder to find a market for goods. The dominions have shown a tendency to assert a larger measure of independence.

So Great Britain is going to Ottawa in the hope of making a business deal with Canada, oldest of the dominions, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland, India, hoping to learn something to her advantage, will be represented although she is not yet of dominion status. The Irish Free State also will attend.

Statute of 1930

The most important thing which came out of the last imperial conference, at London in 1930, was the Statute of Westminster, an act of parliament which renounced forever the right of the mother country to veto or override legislation of the dominions. It severed almost the last formal bond which bound the dominions to Great Britain, leaving only the oath of allegiance to the king.

Now the Free State wants to abolish that, in its present form. The dispute which has been going on between the Free State and the British government for many weeks, may put Ireland at a disadvantage in negotiating for economic privileges at Ottawa.

And economic issues are by far the most important to be discussed at this conference.

For many years 70 per cent of the imports into the British Isles have come from countries outside the British Empire. If the dominions will buy more from the mother country, England can return the favor by taking a greater part of her imports from the dominions.

More wheat from Canada and Australia and less from the United States and Argentina; more dairy products from New Zealand, Australia, and the Irish Free State, and less from Denmark; and the other Scandinavian countries; more meat from Australia and less from the United States and the Argentine.

Works Two Ways

These are the plums the dominions can pack from the British tree. But there is a price:

More automobiles, agricultural implements, machinery, iron and steel, boots and shoes, textiles and wearing apparel from Great Britain and less from the United States.

The idea is for Great Britain to give the dominions, and to receive from them, either low tariffs or no tariffs at all, but that is not so easy as it sounds.

The foreign countries which now sell Great Britain's 70 per cent of her imports also absorb 55 per cent of British exports. Whatever is done at Ottawa must not disturb these non-empire markets too seriously or England will lose more than she gains.

Argentina, for example, is one of the best markets for British machinery and textiles. If Argentine wheat suffered in competition with British wheat, Argentina might be expected to retaliate, perhaps by boosting the tariff on British imports or by granting a preference to the same products from the United States or other countries.

At this conference Great Britain will be in a position which she never has occupied before. She is a tariff country now, having abandoned the traditional free trade policy in a heroic effort to straighten out the financial condition at home.

The dominions have their own axes to grind.

Australia hopes that after this conference she will be able to sell

Urge 4-H Clubs to Send In Names of Delegates

Four-H clubs of Outagamie-co are being urged by Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent to meet before the end of the week to select their delegates to the annual summer camp at Onaway island, Waupaca, in August. Names of delegates should be sent to Miss Thompson as soon as they are selected, she advises the clubs. The Outagamie County Bankers' association is furnishing funds to pay expenses of one delegate from each club to the camp.

more meat, wheat and wool to other units of the empire; that she will be able to cut in on the Danish bacon, eggs and butter market, on the fruit market of California. But she will not bargain too sharply, for she depends on the British navy for defense, there is a strong sentimental attachment to the British crown, and she is convinced that her best chance for prosperity is in complete cooperation with the rest of the empire.

India, whose racial problem has contributed more than any other single factor to interfere with her progress toward dominion status within the empire, goes to Ottawa hoping to cut in on the big empire cotton market. If she can sell her cotton to the other dominions she has an outlet for her principal product.

The Irish Free State is selling dairy products principally, but the row over the oath of allegiance and the Irish land annuities already has brought from the British government an assertion that if the Free State cannot live up to the pledges she already has made, Great Britain is not likely to make any new bargains with her.

The Union of South Africa, already independent in much the same way that Canada is independent, does not expect much in the way of trade benefits. Alone among the dominions, she buys more from the British Isles, than the British Isles buy from her. Further concessions and tariff preferences would only accentuate the unfavorable balance of trade. Her two greatest exports are gold and diamonds, but gold, for a number of reasons, is not included in determining the national balance of trade and the diamond mines for the present are shut down.

If this imperial conference succeeds the empire will be more closely knit by mutual economic interests. If it should fail, there might develop a situation in which the British countries would be lifting tariff barriers against each other.

For many years 70 per cent of the imports into the British Isles have come from countries outside the British Empire. If the dominions will buy more from the mother country, England can return the favor by taking a greater part of her imports from the dominions.

NEW USE FOR WHISKY CORK

Sucking contentedly on a nipple "pacifier" attached to a whisky cork, this husky young fellow was found abandoned in an auto behind a maternity hospital at Cleveland, O., after a mysterious telephone call by a man. The baby, about six months old, was wrapped in newspaper and a towel and left in a market basket for nurses to find. The youngster is healthy and husky and nurses agree that he really is a "working" child. Police later arrested a man who, they said, admitted abandoning the baby.

Labels Assist in Determining Type Of Ingredients

Housewife Able to Know In Advance What She Is Buying

Dried currants, used in most American kitchens in making cakes, cookies, puddings and desserts are of various qualities, and labels on the packages in which they are purchased will aid the housewife in determining the difference between them, according to a bulletin from B. J. Howard of the federal food and drug act statistics administration department.

An ancient food, currants are still highly esteemed, according to Mr. Howard. They are really not currants at all, but are dried raisins from Corinth, in Greece. By examining the labels the housewife can be guided in getting exactly the kind of currants she wants, Mr. Howard advises.

Grading down from first quality, the currant varieties are as follows: Vostizza, Patras, Amalias, Pyrgos (Provincial), and Kalamyos. These names may be printed on the label. The label may also contain the word "washed." This means that the dried product has been washed free from extraneous material or other impurities. The housewife will also find on the label a statement of how much the box contains.

"There was a day when unscrupulous conditions were known to prevail among the currant-packing establishments in Greece," states Mr. Howard. "As a result, some currants were found, upon Government examination at the docks, to contain impurities and the fruit was therefore adulterated under the pure food law. Today, with each consumer invoice accompanying an importation of dried currants there must be attached an endorsement in its metropolitan confines."

School Tax at Kimberly Cut Ten Per Cent

Voters Decide to Continue Nine-Months School; Eliminate Music

Special to Post-Crescent
Kimberly.—The annual meeting of school district No. 6, village of Kimberly, was held Monday evening at the high school. Joseph T. Doerflinger is clerk of the school district and Oscar Ehke was appointed chairman of the meeting and Paul A. Loeschmidt, secretary.

Financial statements covering the records of the clerk and treasurer as audited by E. A. Dettmann, Appleton, were approved. The voters again adopted the nine-month school year as on previous years. The tax levy for school purposes, recommended a 10 per cent reduction in the tax levy for school purposes. The tax levy as adopted for 1932 is $27,325. The salaries of the district officers were again placed as follows: clerk, $125, director $50, and treasurer, $50. The school board was given authority to borrow necessary money in case of emergency.

The musical programs including the county music program and the Van Zeeland studio which conducted an orchestra in the high school, were eliminated this year.

A lively discussion took place as to whether the district would accommodate tuition students from the various villages and townships, due to the large class graduating from the parochial school taxing the seating capacity of the school almost to the limit. The matter was left in the hands of the school board. The rate for tuition students was left at $72 per year. Mr. Doerflinger was re-elected clerk of the district for the ensuing three years.

Clarence Fieweger, Alex Malcolm and Mrs. Mary Briggs were appointed on the auditing committee for the ensuing year. The question of the teachers taking a reduction in salary for the coming school year was discussed. It was recommended that the board investigate the possibility of reducing salaries.

The position of office clerk in the school was retained for another year by unanimous vote. The next annual meeting will be held on the second Monday of July, 1933. The assembly will convene in the new village hall instead of the school. The parents of last year graduates brought up the question of the possibility of their children taking a correspondence course during the coming school year through the university extension division and asked the assembly present to vote an appropriation of the sufficient amount to pay one-half of the cost of the courses. The board set aside $300 from the tax-levy for this purpose.

Legion Junior Nine Wins Game by Forfeit

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—In a game which went merrily for seven innings, the local Junior Legion team was leading 11 to 8. In the seventh inning, Red Smith New London short stop, slid home and Clintonville's catcher Fisher, lost his temper and pulled a big league "dickie" stunt. His fist bounced off of Smith's stomach, and Fisher was chased out of the game. Clintonville having no other catcher gave up the game on a forfeit. So the new county champions had to be content with a 9-0 score. On Friday the team will swing into district play, going to Waupaca to meet Wisconsin Rapids.

Economics Club Plans Picnic Next Sunday

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—The Golden Hill Home Economics club will sponsor a picnic at the farm home of Mrs. Arthur Hintz on Sunday. Dinner will be served, and stunts will be carried out in the afternoon. The program committee comprises Mrs. Emanuel Boettcher, Mrs. August Schwandt and Mrs. Hintz, while the social committee includes Mrs. Peter Schetter, Mrs. August Tesch and Mrs. Clarence Feurst. The club met at the home of Mrs. Leo Bleck Tuesday evening.

Couple Observes Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pelzer of New London Wed Half Century
(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—At a gathering at which all but one of their nine children were present, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pelzer, 325 W. Beacon-ave., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday. Throughout the day they received the congratulations of friends.

Both are of German ancestry. They came with their parents to America to settle in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Pelzer, then Miss Katherine Winter, arrived in 1880. Mr. Pelzer arrived a year later. Their marriage occurred in Pittsburgh, July 13, 1882. They remained in the east until 1889 when, with their three children, they came to Wisconsin. Mr. Pelzer, a tailor, secured work in the old firm of Lipke Brothers in this city, later worked for H. G. Andrae, an early merchant and then for Silas Wright. Still later he entered business for himself. His shop on S. Pearl-st. is still open daily.

Though Mrs. Pelzer has been in ill health for many years, she still keeps house.

Mr. Pelzer has seen a multitude of changes. Many of these have taken place in his own line of business since the establishment of big sample books for the selection of material for men's suits. Time was, recalls Mr. Pelzer, when the best dressed man depended upon his tailor for "store clothes," but this is not so true today.

With but one exception the entire family was present on Wednesday. One daughter, Mrs. Minnie Pelzer, wife of the Rev. Paul Weber of Chippewa Falls, was unable to be here. The tenth member, Hugo, died three years ago. This was the only death to occur in an unusually large family. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Pelzer of Winona, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Uecker of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pelzer and daughters Betty and Mary of Hartford, Otto Pelzer of Elcho, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krueger, Waupun, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Pelzer and son Bobby, Delavan, Miss Viola Pelzer of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Pelzer of Sheboygan. Mr. and Mrs. Pelzer are members of Emanuel Lutheran church of this city.

Fail to Locate Car Stolen in New London

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—Police investigation into the theft of the coupe belonging to Dr. M. A. Borchardt from its parking place in front of the Borchardt clinic on Tuesday has been of no consequence. The car disappeared at about 10:30 Tuesday morning and the thief apparently drove away through the downtown business district. It was the doctor's instrument case. Two months ago a similar case was stolen from Dr. Borchardt's car.

Former Students Of High School To Hold Reunion

Gathering is Planned During Two-Day Dedication Program

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—Former students, graduates and teachers of the New London high school will hold a reunion during the two-day dedication of the new high school Aug. 24 and 25. These dates are tentative and may be changed. Fully 1,100 alumni and former students who have scattered throughout this country will be invited to return.

Names will be chosen from a list covering a period since the first class graduated in 1886. The duty of securing a mailing list has already presented a problem, according to C. W. Mason, chairman of the committee, but this difficulty will be made easier if each person interested passes the word along and aids in locating any of those who were in any way connected with the school in former days, he pointed out.

Aiding Mr. Mason will be Mrs. E. C. Jost, chairman of the banquet committee, Miss Marjorie Zaig, chairman of the dance committee, Mrs. C. D. Feathers, in charge of registration, and A. D. Fisher of Shiocton, who will be in charge of finances. Miss Loretta Rice will be chairman of the reception committee and Mrs. Lyle McCully has been named in charge of decoration. These members will name their own committees.

The first day of the dedication will be taken up by ceremonies in which members of the board of education and the city council will take part. No plans have as yet been made definite. The second day will be given over to students, graduates and teachers of former years. Inspection of the school during the morning will be followed by separate class reunions in the various rooms of the high school. The class prophecies unearthed from boxes of keepsakes will be read and class officers and class spirit will again be revived. A banquet will be featured at 6:30, following which a program will be presented in the auditorium. The evening will conclude with a dance in the gymnasium.

Little Chute Bank Elects Directors

President and Vice President to be Chosen at Next Month's Session

Special to Post-Crescent
Little Chute.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the bank of Little Chute was held Tuesday evening at the bank. The following directors were elected: William Geenen, Henry W. Bongers, Dr. J. H. Doyle, Herman J. Stark and Peter A. Gloudehans. The president and vice president will be elected at the next meeting which will be held the latter part of this month.

Members of the second St. Agnes sodality of St. John church held their annual outing at Waverly beach Wednesday afternoon. About 45 members attended.

The regular monthly meeting of the members of the Royal Neighbors will be held Thursday evening in the St. John school hall. After the business meeting cards will be played and prizes will be awarded. It is expected there will be a large attendance.

Joe was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hermes.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Jenny and son have returned to their home in Cottonwood, Idaho after a several week visit at the home of Otto Jenny, Garfield-ave.

Miss Geraldine Hageman of Racine is visiting for a few weeks at the Peter Hermes home, Vandenberg-st.

New London Society

New London.—The ninety-first birthday anniversary of Mrs. H. S. Lyon, a former member of the Congregational church of this city, evening at the Girl Scouts to fill up the vacant places as soon as possible and they will be able to attend the camp with the rest of the scouts.

Mrs. William Kemps, returned from Europe Monday, where she has been visiting friends and relatives for the past two months. She was accompanied by Mrs. Peter Wonders of Little Chute.

Mrs. Lyon, small and alert in mind and body, chattered throughout the day with old friends. She showed herself to be thoroughly posted on all questions of the day, is keenly interested in people and their interests and as a part of the program recited a long poem. She is the mother of C. W. Lyon of this city.

Members of the Congregational church and aid society have been invited to spend the day at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rothchild on Lake Winnebago near Neenah on July 27.

New London Personals

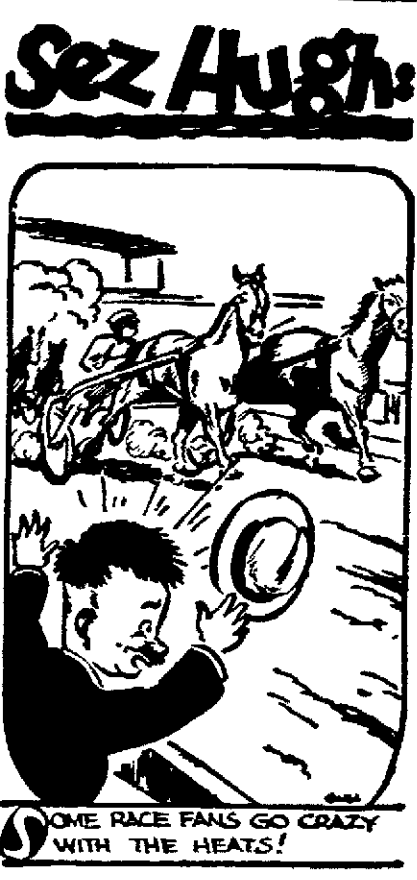

New London.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Steingraber and family have returned from Stormy Lake, near Eagle River, where they spent several days. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boldt and family of Antigo.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kroil of Shawano are visiting relatives in this city.

Mrs. C. B. Reuter is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Reuter and family in Jefferson.

Francis J. Shoemaker spent Tuesday night in the city with his wife and son. He was on his way to Red Wing, Minn., from Cleveland.

New London.—Amos Tate was overcome with heat in the council chamber Wednesday night when he attended a meeting of citizens and members of the chamber of commerce. He was carried down stairs, where first aid revived him.

Chamber Reviews Work of 6 Months

Organization Pledges Aid in Attempt to Provide More Jobs

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—At the chamber of commerce meeting Wednesday evening, committee heads explained the work accomplished in the past six months. The organization pledged itself to cooperate with the Labor Union in securing work for those now receiving city aid.

F. R. Smith, F. L. Zaig and E. C. Jost stated that though the undertaking might involve some discord, it should be tackled. The Labor Union, it was said, favored cleaning up the bathing beach, tourists park, baseball park and repairing many of the city walks. Earl Fredericks, spokesman for the Union, also asked the chamber's consideration regarding the placing of city employees on a five-hour basis which would make more of a labor spread. The chamber in a resolution will meet with the Labor Union and try to have city heads work out some plan where those receiving city aid will receive jobs so that the proposed work may be accomplished.

George Ribbany, who heads a special committee and who also is head of the legislation and taxation committee, announced that the department will soon start work regarding next year's city budget. This committee will work with the city council's finance committee.

J. F. Bentz in a report of the committee relating to the securing of conventions reported that the Lutheran Aid association will meet here in 1933. E. C. Jost reported that the Mensies Shoe factory bond issue is rapidly coming to a head. He also reported that two industries have made inquiries as to the possibilities of locating here.

Motorcyclist Fined; Drove Without Lights

Special to Post-Crescent
Kimberly.—Clarence Van Gompel of Little Chute pleaded guilty to driving a motorcycle without lights when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Matt Hopfensperger, Van Gompel, who was given a fine of three dollars and cost or five days in the county jail, paid the fine. Release Youth In Larceny Case

Companions are Sentenced To County Jail After Confessions

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Stockbridge.—Sylvester Giebel of Stockbridge, who was arrested on a petty larceny charge in connection with the theft of coats from a car at Brothertown on the night of May 11, was released from the jail at Chilton after paying for the costs of the action. Giebel insisted that though one of the garments was found in his possession, he was asleep at the time of the theft and had no part in it. His companions, two other Stockbridge boys, Edward Stys and William Docherty, have confessed and are serving time in the county jail. The boys were caught when they brought the stolen garments to a Chilton tailor and requested that he make trousers to match.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Herzog on Monday.

Mrs. Jacob Jack Is Elected Clerk Of School Board

Wins Office Over Dr. G. A. Buehner by Only Two Votes at Meeting

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Hortonville.—In a close contest, Mrs. Jacob Jack was elected clerk of the school board of Joint District No. 1 of Hortonville and Hortonia at a meeting at the high school auditorium Monday evening, defeating Dr. G. A. Buehner by only two votes. Mrs. Jack received 77 votes, and Dr. Buehner 77. The selection of clerk brought out the largest attendance on record in the district.

The question of teachers salaries was discussed at length, but no action was taken as the board had entered into contract with teachers in every department for the coming year. However, a motion was passed to have the clerk call a special meeting on Feb. 6 for the consideration by the electors of the district of a scale of salary for the year 1933-4. The treasurer requested action by the electors on the question of playground equipment. The school board of 1930-1 had ordered surveys and letters from a local dealer with an installment, had provided defective. The treasurer asked that some assurance be made to the dealer that he will be remunerated on completion of the job to the satisfaction of the proper state officer. The meeting granted the request and voted an extra sum of $130 for the project.

The auditing committee and the school board in their reports recommended raising $8,500 for district taxes with special mention of $25 for rent of a playground. The clerks and treasurers reports were read and approved, the treasurer stating in his report that the balance in the bank was the largest in the last 12 years and the second in the length of time when the district had no notes outstanding at the local bank. The only indebtedness of the district at present, he reported, is $1,000 owed the state for the furnace. The directors and treasurers' salaries for the next year were cut in half and the clerk's salary will remain the same as for the past few years.

The meeting was called to order by F. O. Smith, director. Douglas Hodgins was chosen permanent chairman.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves
Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak, the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Schintz Bros. and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-ROID tablets with guarantee of money refunded if they do not end your Pile misery. Adv.

Drives Uric Acid Poison from Body—Then Out Goes Rheumatism

Uric Acid Poisons Start to Leave in 24 Hours — Oh Joy!
The crippling power of relentless uric acid — once it settles in joints and muscles is sad to contemplate. You can't be permanently free from rheumatic pains, agony, twinges and swellings until every particle of this uric acid that poisons the whole system has been expelled.

You simply fool yourself when you take pain deadening drugs — they may bring relief from pain but —the cause of your agony—of your stiffness—of your violent inflammation — uric acid poison — stays right in your body—getting more deeply entrenched in your joints and sooner or later it will manifest itself again—and your worst rheumatic attack may be worse than ever before.

THE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM

Now there's a prescription called Allenru, that is safe yet so powerful that when you take it uric acid poisons start to pour out of your body in 24 hours — better still —

In 48 hours pain, agony and inflammation are gone. —You are ready for work again.

Now remember, please—that one bottle of Allenru is guarantee to do this—and there's something else that will please you—a bottle of Allenru—uric acid's worst enemy—costs but 85 cents at Voigt's Drug Store or any druggist anywhere — little enough to pay to be free and keep free from rheumatic bondage. Debts Issue is Ticklish One in United States

Time Inopportune for Hoover to Make Gesture of Cooperation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—When Prime Minister MacDonald says that, even though America uttered no pledge, "there is no nation in the world more ready to lend a hand in straightening out the financial troubles of Europe," he is stating exactly the situation which prevails here.

Politically this would be an inopportune moment for the Hoover administration even to make a gesture of desire to cooperate. It would be misrepresented immediately as a promise of cancellation. So careful have American officials been that Secretary Stimson is able to assure the senate that the United States has committed itself in no way as a result of or in connection with the Lausanne agreement to scale down German reparations.

But the truth is not difficult to see. Europe is doubtless expecting more from America than the United States may be able to do, but at this time Europe must have faith in America's willingness to do something—which means a revision of debts—and cannot exact promises or pledge.

Realize Difficulties

As a matter of fact when Mr. MacDonald says he is depending on "American speeches and other expressions of American public opinion," he need only refer to the debate in the Congressional Record whenever war debts have been discussed. He will find that under a veneer of uncompromising steadfastness there is a realization of the practicalities of collecting a debt that cannot be collected in full. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Democrat who is perhaps one of the most independent-minded individuals who ever sat in the upper house, not long ago told the senate with some degree of cynicism that it was very well to say debts would not be cut, but what was America going to do about it if Europe expressed an inability to pay.

While members of congress realize and do say privately that, confronted by the practical side of the case and concrete requests for revision, America will be in an embarrassing situation if she refuses to discuss and negotiate they maintain outwardly the thesis that the creditor should not be running after the debtor and promising reduction but that the facts should be examined in due time and a decision made when the case is complete.

This is only another way of saying that any general policy such as cancellation is considered out of the question and that members of congress fear this is what Europe really is driving at and expecting. If on the other hand Europe is bargaining for a settlement and in her heart knows America will not accept absolute cancellation but wants payment resumed on some basis that is satisfactory to American opinion, then the comments of today in Washington, London and Paris are meaningless.

European statesmen must continue to satisfy the public opinion of their respective countries that the concessions made to Germany will not be borne entirely by the allied countries and that America will help. For the moment it is apparently politic to let European peoples believe the measure of aid will be extensive and ungrudging. A few months may see a slow but none the less penetrating realization on the part of Europe that maybe a one-third cut in armaments will mean a one-third cut in debt payments. Perhaps this will prove disappointing to Europe. But the situation between now and November, when the big discussions will begin, cannot but bring out the difficulties the American government is going to have if it asks congress to cut materially the European indebtedness. A postponement of payments for three years or so may prove more acceptable to congress than any reduction of the payments.

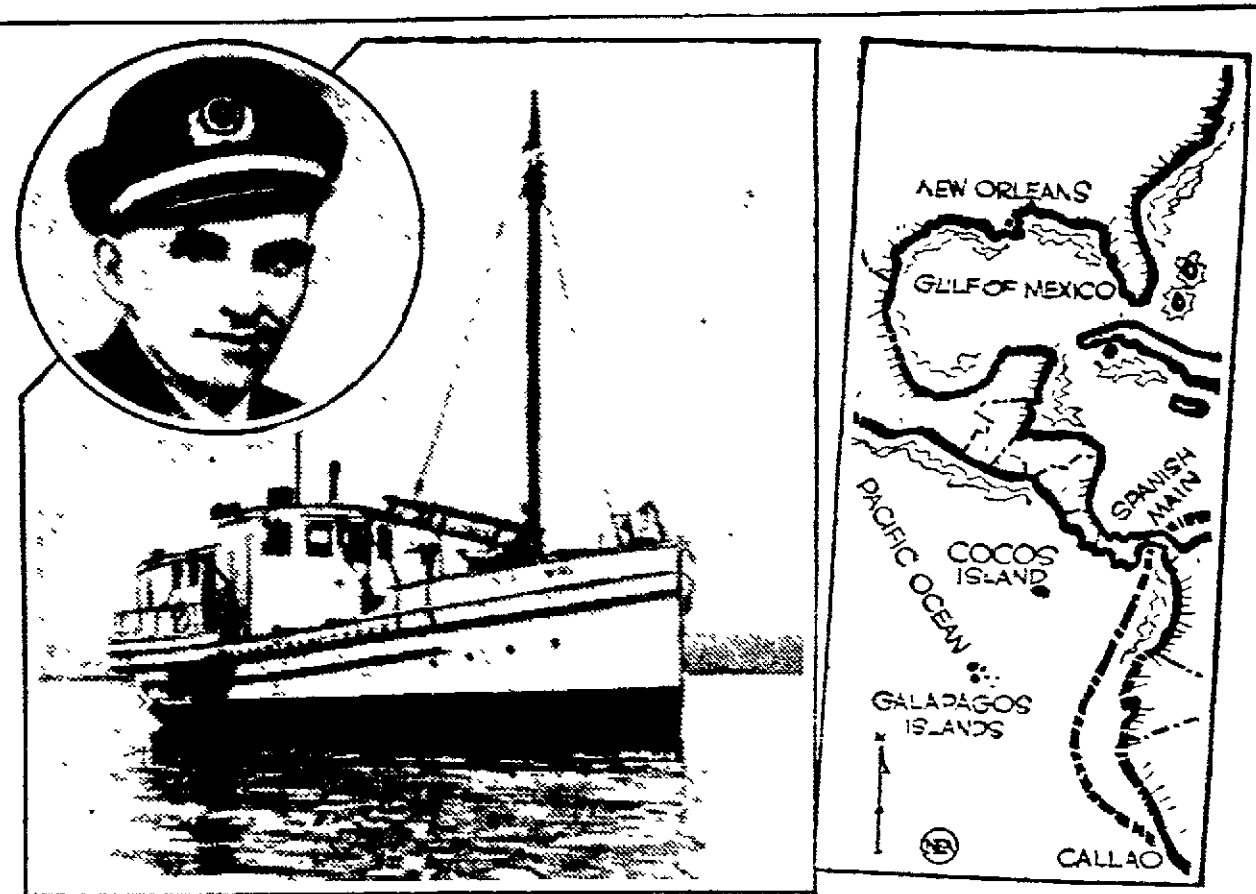

Certainly congress does not believe Europe is about to go to be in the economic situation of 1932. It believes France is in better position to meet her obligations than any country in the world, with the possible exception of the United States. Congress would rather go easy on payments now and refuse cancellation or material reduction than to revise debts in the light of present day economic necessity to pay. Irrespective of the outcome of the elections, congress will present that kind of front. The executive branch of the government will be flexible to negotiate more freely and flexibly after the election but after all the senate and house must pass on the agreement reached; and the present trend is toward some reduction in payments for the percentage European leaders are hinting that they expect from America. SEARCH IS SPURRED FOR PIRATES' BURIED TREASURE

Treasure hunters on Cocos Island, in the Pacific, 600 miles off Costa Rica, are reported to have found a spot in a creek bed under which they believe lies the Devonshire treasure, buried by Captain Graham of the British warship Devonshire after he turned pirate. Reports that treasure worth $800,000,000 actually had been discovered were denied by officials of the syndicate financing the expedition. Above is the ship Silver Wave in which the expedition set out, and, in the inset, its captain, Elmore Hanson. The map shows the location of Cocos Island where buccanniers of the 1700s are supposed to have hidden tons of gold bullion and chests of coin seized from Spanish vessels.

Good Fishing is Found In Sand Bay in Door-Co

BY BERT CLAFLIN

This season is below normal so far as vacation trips and fishing excursions are concerned, yet enough do enjoy that form of recreation to still make of it a very important economical factor, one that is a benefit, directly or indirectly to all of us. As an indication of the interest taken in where to go for camping and fishing trips let me say that, notwithstanding the fact that the people as a whole are not spending the money for pleasures that they do ordinarily, I am receiving an average of 30 requests daily for information on where to go.

Our northern counties, with their thousands of lakes and streams that contain every variety of game fish, offer a far better field for me to draw from, but the longer trips call for the expenditure of more money. For that reason I have felt disposed to speak of places nearer by. For those of you who wish to know where you can go for a week-end fishing trip let me tell you about the bass fishing that can be had now in Door-Co. A glance at your map will show you county line "C" from Brussels to Little Sturgeon Bay. That is, if you are driving from Green Bay or other points than those on Lake Michigan.

In that vicinity is Sand Bay. Last Sunday, according to reports I have, Harry Flint and party caught last Sunday 14 small mouth bass on the reef which lies about a mile and a half west of Sand Bay.

The water is perhaps five to ten feet in depth along this reef. I am told that "Green Bay flies" were used for bait, several of the insects being wadded up and placed on the hook, and then fished deep with a sinker. This is a good bait at this time, yet I also heard of another angler who had made a good catch casting artificial lures. What kind were used I was not told, but that is not a difficult matter for any angler to solve.

Another place that can be successfully fished for black bass is Snake Island, which lies between Sand Bay and Riley's Bay. The places I have named are just two of the many good bass waters on the Door County peninsula. Little Sturgeon Bay can hardly be called a part of the peninsula, but it is in close proximity to it and so may be included when speaking of that region.

Algoma Couple Pioneers Of College Tent City

Madison—Mr. and Mrs. F. Schlosser, of Algoma, are the pioneers of the University of Wisconsin tent colony, a census of the unique settlement has revealed. The couple first came to the tent village in 1917 and have resided there while attending 11 different summer sessions at the university. The census takers found the colony this year is inhabited by 176 persons representing 23 states. Each year the colony, residence for students and their families who prefer the outdoor life and cheaper quarters to city apartments and rooming houses, sets up its own organization for government by elected officials.

Madison—Mr. and Mrs. F. Schlosser, of Algoma, are the pioneers of the University of Wisconsin tent colony, a census of the unique settlement has revealed. The couple first came to the tent village in 1917 and have resided there while attending 11 different summer sessions at the university. The census takers found the colony this year is inhabited by 176 persons representing 23 states. Each year the colony, residence for students and their families who prefer the outdoor life and cheaper quarters to city apartments and rooming houses, sets up its own organization for government by elected officials.

Seek Rate Cut in Cheese Shipments

Reduction Asked by Railroads to Meet Truck Competition

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—In order to meet truck competition, various railroads have applied to the I. C. C. for permission to establish reduced freight rates on shipments of cheese from Appleton, Neenah, and 16 other Wisconsin points to Omaha, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Sioux City, Des Moines, and Hastings and Lincoln, Neb.

The Wisconsin origins included in the applications are Fond du Lac, Appleton, Neenah, Juneau, Green Bay, Francis Creek, Reedsville, Plymouth, Cleveland, Two Rivers, Edgar, Marathon City, Zachow, Wausau, Shawano, Marshfield, Manitowish and Newton.

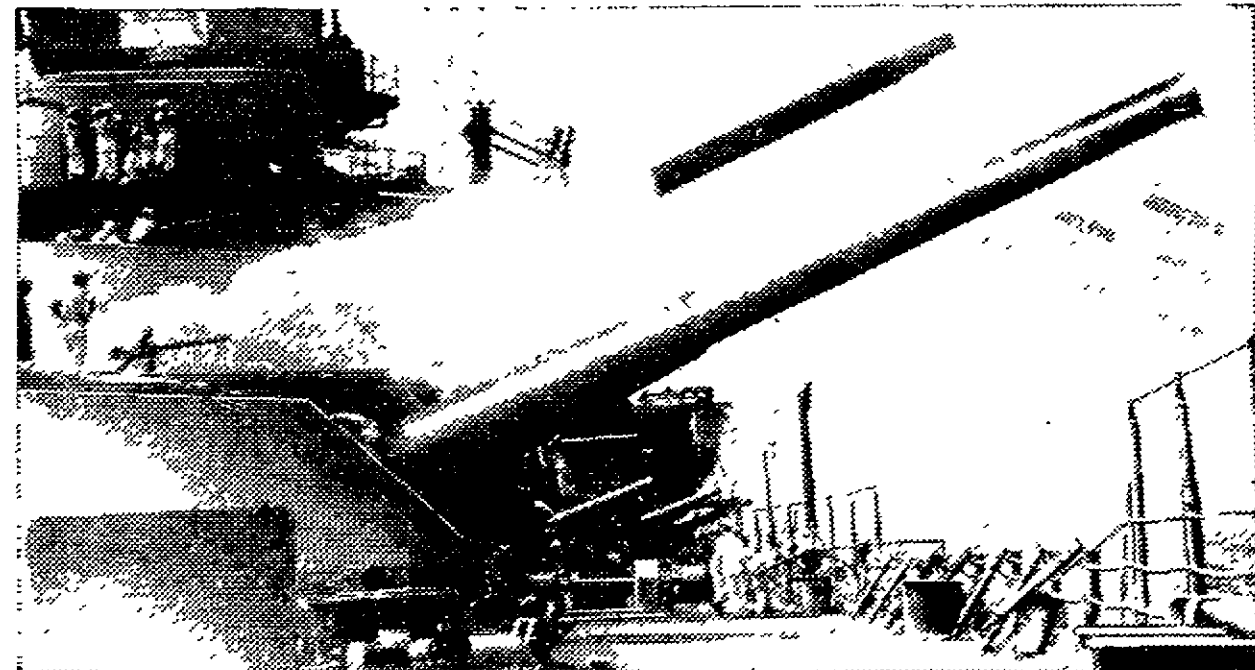

The proposed new rates, 73 cents per 100 pounds to Hastings and Lincoln and 83 cents to the other destinations, would go into effect as soon as immediately upon the granting of Commission permission, and would expire on March 31, 1933. The rates have previously applied for a reduction to Hastings and Lincoln to be effective August 1 and have now seek that date moved up to coincide with effective date of the reductions to other points.

As examples of the present rates from Appleton, to Omaha 82 cents, to St. Joseph 81 cents, from Green Bay, to Kansas City 84 cents, to Lincoln 92 cents, from Manitowish, to Sioux City 83 cents to Des Moines, 70 cents, to Hastings $1.03.

SINCLAIR AGAIN WINS NAVY OIL CONTRACT!

1,600,000 Gallons of Sinclair products to be used by U. S. Battleships, Destroyers, Submarines, Navy Aircraft, Army Tanks, etc.

THE United States Government has awarded to the Sinclair Refining Company the major part of the contract for supplying lubricants to the Navy and other Government Departments during the fiscal year 1932-33.

The basis of the award was the lowest service cost per gallon as determined by competitive tests in the Government testing laboratories at Annapolis, Maryland. Proposals were received from various companies and both price and quality were duly considered in making the formal award. The quality of Sinclair lubricants received due consideration.

Gambler's Throw by Eustace L. Adams

SYNOPSIS: Ashwood, the "gentleman" who is entertaining five "guests" in an island while he collects ransom, has sent for a minister to marry him to Nancy Wentworth, one of his prisoners. But Jerry Calhoun, who with Stevens and Emory Battles is trying to outwit Ashwood, intends to marry Nancy himself.

Chapter 27
SECRET MARRIAGE

"Unless I am too optimistic," he chuckled, "another guest is arriving, one who will be glad to give spiritual comfort to those who desire it."

He looked point blank at Lucci, who cursed him.

Ten minutes later, the affable host presented the Rev. Dr. Llewellyn Titherington to his guests. The minister was a short, thin man with a bass voice which, being out of proportion to his stature, startled those who heard it for the first time.

Ashwood regarded him with ill-restrained delight. It was evident that Dr. Titherington had read the tulsone accounts of the spectacular kidnapping and recognized the victims as they were introduced. By the time the smiling cripple presented "One-shot Lucci, Flower of Chicago Gandom," The minister trembled, naturally.

"And now," suggested Ashwood suavely, "I must insist that you rest. Your journey has, no doubt, been fatiguing. Alfred, show Dr. Titherington to his room."

The minister turned and followed the steward.

"Sort of too bad," ventured the detective mildly, "to make sport of the little fellow like that. I'm going in to see if I can make him feel a little easier in his mind. He's probably all upset."

Ashwood bowed sardonically. "Peace be with you, brother," he pronounced blandly, the drawn-down gravity of his mouth belied by the scoffing twinkle in his eyes.

Stevens turned abruptly and left the room. Walking through the long hall of the guest's wing, he knocked at the door which he guessed would be the minister's. There was no answer, so he entered without invitation. Dr. Titherington was seated on a straight-backed chair, anxiously looking out of the window into the fast darkening twilight. His face was pale, his eyes large and round, but he was in full control of his emotions.

"Well, Reverend, how goes it?" Stevens seated himself on the edge of the bed and studied the other for a moment before broaching his subject. "See here, Reverend, you may have forgotten who I am, amongst all the introductions of a few minutes ago. I'm Stevens, an operative of the United States Treasury department."

The little man looked at him dully.

"What are you doing in this den of thieves, then?" he inquired.

"Trying to get away and put the leader of the crooks in prison. There hasn't been a break I could take advantage of yet, so I've had to bide my time." He stopped to marshal his thoughts. Then, abruptly, "You came to marry Ashwood to Miss Wentworth, didn't you?"

Dr. Titherington's long fingers wound and unwound the long black ribbon which hung from his nose glasses.

"Yes," he replied at length. "But I am not sure that I shall conduct the ceremony, now."

"I know you won't."

The minister stared curiously at the detective. He was gradually emerging from the fog of depression which had engulfed him.

"What do you mean by that?" he demanded.

"Just that. The cripple is going to abduct that girl against her will. In a moment of whole-hearted generosity he offered to marry her, the way a feller tosses a bone to a dog. But whether you marry them or not, he's going to take her away unless we can find some way to stop it."

"Perhaps, then," decided the other, "it would be better to marry them."

"It would, if the whole affair couldn't be stopped. But it can. There is a fine young feller here who got into this jam just to rescue her. He has offered to marry her before Lumpy gets around to it, hoping that will stop him from carrying her off."

"I shall have nothing to do with it. The whole thing is entirely too fantastic." The black ribbon was hopelessly snarled.

"Well," observed the old man, quietly, "from where I sit, a live layman, if you'd have to give up your church, would look better to me than a dead minister."

"Dead?" Dr. Titherington gasped audibly.

"Dead'n' hell, begging your pardon. You don't meet guys like Ashwood at Wednesday afternoon guild meetings, you know. He'd worry himself over killing you as much as he did over bumping off those two gorillas of One-shot's. Maybe less. I take it he doesn't care much about ministers. I might mention, in passing, that two men got their throats cut last night. One of 'em was the other side of that partition. If you are alive tomorrow you will probably read a burial service or two."

"And you—a government detective—stand for these outrages?"

"Just now, yes," admitted Steve patiently. "No use committing suicide, like you're going to, because I don't like what I can't help. Now listen, you can do the girl a good turn by marrying her to the nice young feller who'll be running much more risk of getting knocked off than you will. If your conscience will allow you, though, to hitch her up to Ashwood, go to it! Me, I'd hate to live to old age remembering it, if I was to do a thing like that."

He rose wearily and turned toward the door. A sudden gesture from the deflated little clergyman stopped him.

"What about the license?" ventured the clergyman weakly.

"I'll take the responsibility for that," the other assured him. "If you're going to swallow the whole thing, don't gag at the details."

Mr. Witherington winced.

"Bring the couple to me," he agreed finally. "I prefer to meet the wrath of a criminal rather than the sorrow of my Maker."

Stevens, in his delight, smote the other on the back with so lusty a whack that the little man coughed painfully. Then he went for the bride, bridegroom and Emory, whom he had decided should be best man.

Ashwood looked up from his book as Mr. Titherington, Jerry, and Nancy, Emory and Stevens trooped into the living room. For the first time since Jerry had known him the cripple seemed, for a moment, to have been caught off guard. In intuitive suspicion of the unexpected, his eyes flashed from one to the other of the entering group, as though to read in their minds the riddle of their unusual appearance.

"Is this a comatose waiting upon me with a pension?" he bowed, at last. "You all have the guilty expressions of conspirators on your faces." A note of impatience crept into his voice. "Come, unveil the mystery."

Jerry stepped forward and found that Steven had unobtrusively shouldered his way to his side. Hamilton, shuffling his cards absently, was regarding them with idle curiosity. MaLory, a half-ball half-way to his lips, stood by the center table gazing at them in astonishment. Martin's white face, dum in a corner, was turned their way. Lucci, in an easy chair, made the plot think of a croaking panther. "What was it that had warned them of a crisis?"

"Gentlemen," Jerry's voice was clear and crisp. "May I present my wife, Mrs. Calhoun."

Ashwood quivered as though he had been slapped. The blood slowly drained from his face until his cheeks were as colorless as his hair. He looked nearer fifty than thirty, except for his eyes. They seemed to contract, somehow, until they were mere slits in the parchment of his dead-white face.

Lucci rose from his chair, his hot little eyes as venomous as a copperhead. He took three steps forward and then, as though impatient to get his hands upon the man who had robbed him of Nancy, he catapulted forward, his speed increasing with every step he took.

Jerry whirled and braced himself to meet the attack. His gory eyes were as hard as polished steel. His mouth was set in a crooked half-smile. The long anticipated conflict was at hand and he was content to have it so.

(Copyright, Dial Press)

Jerry gets the fight he wants, tomorrow, and Ashwood inquires how Nancy will like leaving her new husband.

Probe Preferred Stocks to Learn Investment Value

Senior Shares Made Poor

Speculation Lack

New York—Recent events make it timely to reexamine the claim of the preferred stock to an investment rating against the bond on the one hand and the common stock on the other.

Now in part, this legislative de-blue in the market for preferred shares has been due to the lack of a speculative interest. In common stocks the market has been closed because of the existence of a short account which was lacking in the case of the preferred issues. Another factor and a more important one has been the lack of interest in the part of steady investors for dividends. As earnings have decreased the favored position of a preferred stockholder has weakened and will continue to weaken until if income accounts take an upward turn.

Meanwhile the chapter provisions applying to the senior stocks take on enhanced importance. If the dividend is cumulative the long

Accused of Death of Physician Killed During Michigan Prison Riot

Marquette, Mich.—Y—Three men charged with murder in connection with the death of Dr. A. W. Hornboken, physician at the Marquette prison slain in a riot at Marquette were bound over for trial July 27.

The three men are Walter (Red) Tylickak and Stanley Big Stacks, Polish prison inmates, and Sam Szonicki, Detroit policeman.

Szonicki is accused of having sealed weeping into the eyes of chicken and the other two men, sentenced subsequently on robbery charges, are charged with having delivered the guns to the prison.

Four others killed Dr. Hornboken and Frank Olschaker, a trusty, last August. When ordered they committed suicide.

HELD FOR EXTORTION

Chicago—Y—Max W. Kraska, 47, head of a roofing company, was arrested today and held by the police on a charge of extortion by the payment of $100,000 to the attempted escape of a convict from Jack Durrand of the Cook County Jail under threat of kidnapping.

City Library Is Busy Place For Children

Vacation Reading Club Has Large Enrollment at Kaukauna

Kaukauna — One of the busiest places in Kaukauna for grade school children during the vacation time is the public library. Little tots line up with the older children around the desk, others gather at the bulletin board with its lists of books, according to grade.

The Kaukauna library has 46 members in its children's vacation reading club. According to the books they read they receive stars after their names on the reading club chart. Guessing contests are held throughout the season in which children name certain stories from pictures displayed on the board or pick out book titles from excerpts of certain descriptions that reveal the story which is included on the vacation list.

Members of the vacation reading club include the following: Werner Altman, Rita Belonger, Robert Bolinske, Dorothy Broehm, Shirley Jane Burton, Louise and Lucille Faust, Doris Feldt, Gloria Geske, Lonna Jubert, May Lummerding, Elaine, Lester and Wilma Pardee, Martha Romanesca, Arlene and Helen Schomisch, Ralph Schubring, George Steffens, William Steffens, Elsie Ussery, Helen Van Denzen, Kame Vandenberg, Helen Vanveen, Dorothy Mae Zink, Lucille Berg, Joseph Meslinski, Rose Terry, Tilly Teny, Russell Toms, Rosella Turk, Grace Van Lieshout, Marie Valenty, Virginia Reed, Grace Sager, Beatrice Goetzman, Germain Faust, James Mayer, Jack Blake, Robert Wolf, George Schubring, Regina Janssen, James McGrath, Jack Mertes, Elaine Milton, Marvin Skalmusky.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nelson celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary Tuesday evening with a party at the Nelson cottage at the Willows. Ten couples were entertained at cards.

A card party will be sponsored by the St. Mary Altar society at 2:30 Friday afternoon at the church annex. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Martin Van Rooy and Mrs. E. Buerh.

Lady Foresters met for a 5 o'clock picnic dinner Tuesday afternoon at Kaukauna Tourist park. Cards were in play before dinner. Prizes were won by Mrs. John Maher and Mrs. Edward Driesen, sheephead and bridge being played. The group will not meet again until the first Tuesday in August.

Credits His Mother For Prize Pigeons

Kaukauna—The success of the prize-winning pigeons of Joseph Le Fevre, city attorney, who declares that he has never lost a pigeon in two years in major flights, goes entirely to a 70-year-old woman, his mother, Mrs. Virginia Le Fevre of Green Bay.

"My mother, is the best manager in the world," he declared as he told how his mother is the only person who cares for and feeds his pigeons. Last year one of them broke the world's record in the young bird series and won the average speed record last week in the Green Bay club flight.

Mr. Le Fevre, who owns 35 pigeons, is a pigeon club enthusiast. He is a member of the Green Bay club which is affiliated with the International Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers. He lost only one bird in a minor flight in the past two years, numbered 40-49. The pigeon was a young bird.

The world record broken by his pigeon last year was a flight of 1,511 yards per minute in the 100, 150, 200 and 300 mile flights. The average maintained this year was in the 100, 200, 300, 400 and 500 mile race. One of the interesting facts about Mr. Le Fevre's pigeons is that they are not trained on trial flights or practiced as many other pigeon fanciers believe in. He declares that the feeding and ordinary care which his mother gives them at his home in Green Bay is enough for his pigeons.

Mrs. Pendorf Dies At Kaukauna Residence

Kaukauna—Mrs. Mathilda Pendorf, 73, wife of Henry Pendorf, died at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fiepenberg following a lingering illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Pendorf formerly of Wausau, had lived with their daughter in Kaukauna since June 18, 1928. Mrs. Pendorf was born in Germany, May 1, 1859, and several years after her marriage there Nov. 19, 1879, the couple came to this country. They settled in Milwaukee in 1891 and moved to Wausau in 1895, where they lived until 1928.

Survivors are the husband; five daughters: Mrs. Herman Otto of Wausau; Mrs. Gustave Pendorf of Wausau; Mrs. Herman Pendorf of Kaukauna; Mrs. Gerry Streinke of Milwaukee and Mrs. George Gueller of Rhineland; 16 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. The body will be sent from the home Friday to Wausau, where burial will take place Saturday afternoon. The services will be held at St. Stephens church at Wausau.

ROTARIAN LUNCHEON

Kaukauna — A brief luncheon meeting was held by Kaukauna Rotarians Wednesday noon at Hotel Kaukauna. The club sponsors no programs except on special occasions during the summer, according to a new policy inaugurated by the club.

OVER MILLION DEVOUT HEAR POPE'S VOICE

Assembled in the great natural cathedral of tree-fringed, 200 acre Phoenix park, a vast congregation of more than 1,000,000 is pictured here at the impressive pontifical high mass which concluded the 31st Eucharistic Congress in Dublin, Ireland. To this sea of humanity came the voice of Pope Pius XI—broadcast from the Vatican radio station—pronouncing a Latin message and the benediction.

Cut Production Cost, Says Expert

Explain Poultrymen Will Profit From Practice No Matter How Market Goes

With eggs at low price levels and fall prices still a matter of uncertain prediction many Outagamie-co poultrymen are seriously thinking of ways of meeting the situation, according to Gus Sell, county agent. Regardless of what may happen to prices there is one way out which seems a logical method to follow at this time and that is obtaining lower production costs through the use of home-grown rations.

J. B. Hayes, of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, is of that opinion and is suggesting that Wisconsin poultrymen watch carefully their production costs and cut them to the lowest possible level in anticipation of low egg prices, whether they maintain or not.

A ration which he suggests can be made from home-grown grains and one that is complete as a laying mash is one composed of 150 pounds of ground corn, 100 pounds of a mixture of equal parts of wheat and barley, or wheat and oats, and one pound of salt. If bran is on hand 50 pounds may be added to the above mixture. In addition, the hens should have access to alfalfa leaves or leafy alfalfa hay and should also have all the liquid milk they will drink.

Corn, wheat, barley, and oats are grown on most all Outagamie-co farms. Should any one of the desired grains not be grown it can usually be obtained by exchanging grain with neighbors.

Although storage holdings on eggs are low as compared to a year ago and receipts have been falling off, all of which point toward high-

Socialist Party to Meet This Evening

Kaukauna—Roland Beyer, secretary of the local Socialists, will speak at the socialist party meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday night at Moose hall. The party platform will be discussed by Mr. Beyer, a student. The meeting is open to the public.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ryan and daughter, Kathryn, of Chicago are spending a few weeks at the M. O. Ryan home, 121 Taylor-st.

Mrs. H. Buerf was taken to Madison General hospital Tuesday for an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Kramer of Knoxville, Tenn., former residents of Kaukauna, are visiting friends here. They are on their way to La Crosse and Duluth, Minn.

Mrs. Edward Ladenberger, Glen Ellyn, Ill., formerly Miss Flora Seifert, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Seifert.

BOY RIDES FAR TO NEW BRIDGE

One of the most picturesque visitors to Sydney, N. S. W., to see the opening of the new Sydney bridge was nine-year-old Lennie Gwyther, who had ridden a pony 600 miles from Gippsland, Victoria. In appreciation of his feat officials gave Lennie a prominent position in the pageant. Other visitors included a number of hikers and 26 members of the Bendigo, Victoria Rowing club, who cycled 660 miles to participate in the regatta held in connection with the celebration. The dedication ceremonies were broadcast over all Australian main and relay stations and also a world hook-up.

er prices, the poultryman who has cheapened his production costs to meet low price levels will profit most regardless of what happens, Hayes points out.

Crop Conditions Reported Better

Drought Is Ended by Recent Rains Through- out State

Madison—Drought conditions prevailing in many parts of Wisconsin have been remedied by widespread rains during the first weeks of July and a consequent improvement in the crop outlook for the state has been reported by the Wisconsin and federal departments of agriculture.

"Grain crops, late hay crops, corn and potatoes are all showing improvement over the outlook for these crops in June," the report said. "Crop prospects for the small grains were considerably below average on July 1. Most of the grain was headed out on short straw, and in many parts of the state it was threatened by the heat and drought of the first half of June."

Tame hay is low in acreage and the first cuttings made below average yields, the report said. The productivity of many fields was greatly impaired by winter killing of alfalfa and clover and the serious drought of last year. In addition, the acreage of Wisconsin hay crops has been greatly reduced.

"In addition to the crop improvement resulting from favorable weather," the report continued, "some encouragement is also seen in the farm price situation. Hogs have risen markedly in price during recent weeks and butter prices have advanced. This is the time of year when the prices of dairy products normally improve, and with the low production and high consumption which have prevailed any improvement that occurs in dairy products can readily be maintained, though the improvement in pas-

Manufacture of Shoes Decreases

Drop in Wisconsin Is Less Than for Entire Country

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington — Although production of boots and shoes in Wisconsin, one of the leading states in the industry, decreased during the first five months of this year from the total of that period of 1931, the decrease was not as great in the Badger state as it averaged for the country as a whole.

Wisconsin's production during January, February, March, April and May, 1932, equalled 5,640,176 pairs, a decrease of 3 per cent from the 1931 total of 5,771,350. The average decrease for the country was 4.1 per cent.

Only five of the nine leading shoe manufacturing states bettered Wisconsin records for the five-month period. Maine reports an increase of 11.7 per cent in production over that of 1931 and Illinois reports an increase of 1.2 per cent. Massachusetts announced a decrease of 1.4 per cent; Ohio of 2.3 per cent and Pennsylvania, 2.7 per cent.

Falling below Wisconsin's 3 per cent decrease are New Hampshire, 8.7 per cent; New York, 9.7 per cent; and Missouri, 13.6 per cent. Figures for May alone, show that Wisconsin's 53 factories produced 1,021,406 pairs of boots and shoes this May as against 1,282,387 pairs in May, 1931. The decrease from April this year to May was from 1,089,538 to 1,021,406 pairs.

tures which will result from the recent rains will probably increase production."
